Milk Support Increases Followed Contributions

WASHINGTON (AP) — Large campaign contributions by dairymen's organizations to President Nixon's re-election campaign helped influence a decision to raise 1971 federal milk price supports, according to letters uncovered in a lawsuit and reported today by The Washington Post.

Reports of the timing of the campaign contributions with a decision to increase federal milk price supports from $4.66 to $4.93 per hundredweight on March 25, 1971, had been published previously. The decision reversed an earlier announcement on March 13 that price supports would not be increased.

But the Post said its information shows that officials of one large dairymen's organization believe their contributions helped bring about the reversal on the price supports, which increased total support payments to the industry by as much as $700 million.

The Post said it obtained the information from letters in connection with a lawsuit brought by the National Farmers Organization against major national dairy cooperatives.

It also said NFO attorney Ward Rowley has forwarded the letters to Atty. Gen. Richard Kleindienst with the statement that "this material

Four More Planes Lost; Six Fliers Are Missing

SAIGON (AP) — Three American fighter-bombers were lost over North Vietnam last weekend, a fourth was downed today and six of the eight fliers are missing, the U.S. Command announced.

This raised losses over North Vietnam to 82 planes and 91 missing airmen since the resumption of full-scale bombing on April 6, the Command said. North Vietnam has announced the capture of more than 20 of the fliers.

The weather over the North cleared somewhat Thursday, and American planes flew more than 310 strikes, the largest number in a week. The Command said its fliers knocked out 25 warehouses, 10 ammunition storage buildings, 15 bridges and 31 water supply craft.

The Command launched an investigation today into a charge by Peking that American bombers attacked a lifeboat from a Chinese merchant ship off the coast of North Vietnam on Tuesday and killed five men.

Peking termed the attack "a grave provocation against the Chinese people" and called on United States to "guarantee against the recurrence of similar incidents."

Peking said the captain of the ship, a deputy political commissar and three seamen were killed. It claimed that the boat was flying the Chinese flag and that the American planes circled it at low altitude repeatedly "for reconnaissance before the bombing."

The U.S. Command admitted that Navy planes attacked a water craft Tuesday off Hon Ngu Island, 11 miles northeast of the port of Vinh.

This was the location specified by Peking. But while the Chinese claimed that the craft was a lifeboat from the merchant ship Hon Gai No. 151, the U.S. Command described it as a 30-foot water supply craft trying to circumvent the American mine blockade of North Vietnam's ports.

A preliminary statement from the command did not identify the nationality of the craft. The pilots from the carrier Oriskany who made the attack were being questioned, and operational reports were being rechecked.

Stabbing Evidence Examined

Police are making definite progress in solving Wednesday afternoon's stabbing of Henry J. Kent, 56, of Box 237A, according to detective Leonard Campbell.

Yesterday Campbell and detective Dan Hinton took several pieces of evidence to the Southeast Missouri Crime Laboratory in Cape Girardeau for analysis. Being examined by the lab are a knife, a shirt, and undershirt, a letter, and a billfold.

Campbell refused to say where the knife was found.

Police have been unable to talk with Kent since the stabbing. He has been kept in the intensive care ward of Missouri Delta Community Hospital with a knife wound in the chest.

Campbell said he was told by Kent's doctor that the knife did not penetrate the body cavity, but rather slid up under the skin.

According to the story police were able to get from Kent before he was placed in intensive care, his car was stopped by two men in a red pick up truck on Illinois Street just south of Ables Road. The men then attacked and robbed him.

Police Urge Drivers To Use Caution

Police are asking motorists to drive carefully and watch for chilren crossing streets now that the new school year is beginning.

Safety Officer Richard Couch, said with help from motorists, the city can be safe for students. He suggested slower driving speeds and anticipating the unexpected.

"All you have to do is just drive the way you would expect others to drive if your children were on the streets," Couch said.

Couch said there were 296 traffic accidents in the city in the first six months of the year. There were 52 injuries and one fatality. The majority of the accidents, he said, were caused by failure to yield right of way, failure to stop at stop signs, and speeding.

Speeders will receive special attention from the police, Couch said. Radar units will be placed around schools once a week to control speeding.

Nixon's Slogan Proves Catchy

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (AP) — Predicting he will win the November election "twice as big" as in 1968, President Nixon says he wants four more White House years to pursue what he terms a "breakthrough for peace" in dealings with Peking and Moscow.

Nixon spanned the continent Thursday — just hours after accepting renomination by the Republican party at Miami Beach. It quickly became apparent that the convention chant of "Four More Years" will be the official litany if not the announced slogan of his drive to defeat his Democratic opponent, Sen. George McGovern.

Patrol Site Decision Expected Within Month

JEFFERSON CITY -- Co. E. I. (Mike) Hockaday, superintendent of the Missouri Highway Patrol, said today that a final decision may be made within a month on the site for the new Troop E headquarters.

"We'd like to get started," he said. The headquarters are currently located in Poplar Bluff.

Hockaday said architects have been looking at sites in Cape Girardeau, Sikeston, Dexter, Bloomfield, and Poplar Bluff. The decision will rest on the availability of the site, its size, the availability of utilities, traffic flow, accessibility to highways, and the projected growth of the community.

Sikeston city officials believe the Sikeston sites meet those requirements better than any offered by other cities. Sikeston is offering several large sites, complete with utilities. City officials are stressing the city's central location in regards to the heavy traffic along Interstates 55 and 57, and the future growth expected here.

One possible problem clouds the possibilities that any city other than Poplar Bluff will be the site: Hockaday said the patrol would have to consider the 15-20 families affected by shifting locations. Moving them, he said, would be quite a problem.

Hockaday said the sites are being evaluated and those thought unsuitable will be eliminated. A more intensive survey of the remaining sites may then be ordered.

"I think it would be foolish to rush into something without weighing the possibilities," Hockaday said.

Hockaday added that political pressures have dropped in recent weeks. At first, he said, there was considerable action among politicians, but the inquiry today by the Daily Standard, was the first interest shown in the last 10 days.

Hearnes To Dedicate 68 Mile Link Of I-55

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — A 68-mile segment of Interstate 55, southeast Missouri's superhighway, will be dedicated next Wednesday at Perryville, the state Highway Department announced.

The new section provides drivers with a divided highway — two lanes in each direction — for 205 miles from St. Louis to near the Arkansas line.

Gov. Warren E. Hearnes will be the featured speaker at the 10:30 a.m. dedication.

When contracts were let three years ago, the 68-mile section between Festus in Jefferson County and Fruitland in Cape Girardeau County, became the largest continuous stretch of interstate highway under construction in the nation, highway officials said.

The northern half of the section, from Festus to Brewer in Perry County, was opened to traffic late last year. The southern Half, from Brewer to Fruitland, is being completed this week.

When the barricades come down, only a small portion of the route will remain incomplete between St. Louis and Memphis. This is 13-mile segment from Hayti to four miles north of the Arkansas line, which is under construction and expected to be completed by the fall of 1973.

Of Missouri's planned 1,147-mile interstate system, the I-55 opening will bring the state's total to 876 miles to or near interstate standards and in operation.

In another announcement, Chief Engineer Robert Hunter said the department is relaxing restrictions on wide loads for the next two weeks so 12-foot-wide mobile homes can be moved toward the Pennyslvania area for disaster relief.

Movement through Missouri will be permitted on Saturday and Sunday and at night on certain routes, Hunter said. Well lighted escorts will be required, he said.

Mobile homes are being sent to Pennsylvania to house persons left homeless by hurricane Agnes.

THE NEW EDUCATION

Grades, written examinations and major subjects are coming under attack at our universities. Students, renowned for their verbal proclivities, prefer to talk about society in general terms.

Talking is their idea of education. From what they hear on television, students proceed as though they are prepared to talk at length on any subject. The traditional purpose of higher education, mastering specific knowledge as the basis of a lifelong educational process, is discarded in favor of kibitzing. This is the new education.

But how new is it? A century ago Harvard abolished required courses. Students flailed about in interdisciplinary studies, designing their own curricula. The Harvard administration steadfastly held to this "reform" for decades before admitting that it was a disaster.

During the 1920's the Soviet Union abolished, among other things, the study of history and foreign languages. "Broad concepts" of sociology were emphasized. Homework, written tests and the like were replaced by discussions. Students then, as now, did not mind getting credit for superficial chit-chat.

But the Kremlin rulers found that their subjects were not learning. People who have not mastered educational basics cannot hope to discourse about "broad concepts." The U.S.S.R. scrapped the new education, as Harvard had done.

In the U.S., however, more colleges are adopting these "reforms," shown to be unproductive a half-century ago. The new education is such an intellectual sham that its proponents do not even know it has failed before.

OLD BLACKSMITH SHOP

Weather- beaten blacksmith shops have gone. Engines have replaced horses and yesteryear's shops are spick and span filling stations. The countryman has watched revolutionary changes over half a century and he is opposed to them. Eight miles an hour behind a chunky Morgan roader is fast enough to go through life.

The old shop was dark, pungent - smelling and cluttered. Windows were smudged with cobwebs; the floor was deep with hoof pairings, debris and dirt. In one corner was a pile of old horse shoes. New shoes hung on rafters overhead — big ones for work horses, small ones for ligh roaders.

It was always good news on a rainy day when a lad was told to take the team to the shop. The blacksmith was a friend who told stories of farm life after the Civil War. He worked the bellows, took a red hot shoe and pounded it to shape. He dunked it in a tub of scummy water and grayish smoke billowed up among the rafters.

Quickly he lifted a leg and the acrid smell of burning hoof filled the shop. A farm boy had learned early that the hot shoe did not hurt the horse. Sometimes the shoe had to be reheated and fitted. When it was ready, the blacksmith drove the nails home with quick hard strokes; he twisted off the nail ends and then smoothed the hoof with a heavy rasp.

Farm boys no longer take work horses or sleek roaders to a blacksmith shop. But a countryman knows that a tractor or a car cannot whinny a friendly greeting, and a modern garage is not the same as the old blacksmith shop.

This surely must reflect the inflation of our times.

The million dollar ransom paid for the safe return of Mrs. Harry C. Pipe, jr., of St. Paul, Minn., and then another million dollars paid to the jijackers of a U. S. airliner which eventually landed in Algiers. Bonnie and Clyde were pikers compared to these criminals.

Since we're still arguing over the death penalty in this country, maybe we should work out a plan that the money paid to hijackers and kidnapers should be treated with a chemical so it will disintegrate within several days after the pay-off.

YOUTHFUL VOTERS

Since the beginning of the 1972 presidential campaign, the youth vote has been courted, polled, counted in the primary elections, and analyzed for its political leanings. Now the laggards among the 25 million potential voters between ages 18 and 24 are being urged officially to take the first step that makes all the courting and polling matter. President Nixon has proclaimed September as National Voter Registration Month, with the emphasis on getting the 11.2 million 18-to-21- year -olds onto the rolls. No one claims to have precise current figures, but the Democratic National Committee said in July that only half of this group had signed up.

Presidential proclamations are more ceremonial than inciting to action. More decisive for Republican chances in November will be the activities of a party group called Young Voters for the President; it has a plan calling for 125,000 volunteers to work at recruiting young Nixon voters. For incentive, the volunteers have the results of a July 23 Gallup Poll showing that non-registered youths favor the President over Sen. Geroge McGovern by 46 to 43 per cent. Registered voters among the 18 to 24 year-olds favor McGovern by 50 to 43 per cent.

One of the political verities of 1972 is that the youth vote could swing the election, but in that role it is merely one segment among nany. Persons over 24 years of age make up 82 per cent of the total number of eligible voters. The Census Bureau reports that 43 is the median age for the electorate in November. In his proclamation, President Nixon said he hopes the base of the electorate will be broadened during September. Perhaps a scattering of over -65s may be lured onto the voting rolls.

WOULD YOU BUY A USED CAR FROM THESE PEOPLE?

Some of us were reminded recently of an unpleasant 1968 campaign poster that had candidate Richard Nixon on it, along with the question, "Would you buy a used car from this man?" The reminder was an article in the Sunday supplement Parade, reporting that two university psychologists had found that the public rates labor union officials, politicians and used car salesmen (in that order) at the bottom of the ladder in terms of trust.

This ought to be a valuable reminder to members of the G.O.P. Platform Committee, who are going to be asked several days from today to put together an honest statement that converts their reading of the mood of the nation into hard campaign promises.

In terms of this "who do you trust" business, the subject of labor law would seem to demand a strong, positive statement calling for an end to the Federal government's sanctioning of compulsory unionism.

Anything less would be an obviously dishonest grandstand play that would completely ignore the public pulse — about which the drafters of the Republican Platform have an abundance of information.

Start with the Republican's own survey of voter attitudes, disclosed recently by Platform Committee Chairman Rep. John J. Rhodes. According to this poll, which drew nearly 8,000 responses, more people (64%) think curbing the power of labor union bosses is a "very important" issue than think ending the U. S. role in Southeast Asia fighting (54%) is.

Guaranteeing every man the right to join a union or to refrain from joining a union without losing his job would be the first step in doing this.

On top of the Republican Party survey are the findings of Opinion Research Corp., of Princeton, N.J., on the country's foremost public opinion study organizations.

In a mid-May series of interviews, just made public, ORC found that 62% of the people favor letting a man work whether or not he belongs to a labor union, and 68% feel there is "too much power concentrated in the hands of the labor leaders of the big unions in this country."

If the Republican Platform Committee could ask for anything clearer, it comes in ORC's findings that 67% of the Republicans questioned said they want a statement in this year's platform "that says each person has the right to get and hold any job whether or not that person belongs to a labor union." These are Republican voters talking about the Republican platform!

A party platform telling the voters of America that political priorities come second to the overwhelming demand for a national Right to Work law would do a lot to raise the trust level of the G.O.P.

NEW YORK (AP) — Of all the individualists in Hollywood, Robert Redford is perhaps the most individual.

The actor, currently starred in "The Candidate," an uncompromising look at politics, seldom runs with the herd and insists on being his own man.

"Bob Redford is a solid, confused citizen" is the way he describes himself—with a wry grimace. A lifelong victim of wanderlust, he prizes the "mystery and privacy of life," and says, "I never have been comfortable except at the beach, the desert or the mountains.

"I like places where the people put no demands on you," he remarked. "You are what you are, and you create your own existence. I love space, freedom and the outdoors, wandering through unexplored territory where you don't feel under constant pressure."

Tall, handsome Redford became a candidate for matinee idoldom with his rousing and likable role in "Butch Cassidy and the Sun Dance Kid." But the idea of being pigeonholed in any way is repellent to him. He feels that modern life tends too much to package man and label him.

"I operate on the principle that you should always keep from feeling completed—to feel that you always have somewhere else to go, and something more to find out, and to be free of tags and labels. That's the only way to stay alive.

"The idea is to play tag with life, but never be 'it.' Then you are free to grow."

Bob led a feckless playboy existence until his career ripened and matured him.

"From 18 to 21 in college I drank myself into oblivion every day," he recalled. "Then I decided that was stupid and a waste of time.

"Now I think that perhaps one of my best qualities is that I try to think myself out—and I still find I'm a stranger to myself sometimes."

Redford is strongly critical of the conforming tendencies of American civilization.

"We are being robbed of our sensual pleasures," he said. "We eat pills instead of food. We are headed for a stratified, sterilized existence in which everything will be packaged for us, and we'll have no choices left."

What is the answer?

"The only hope we have is to revitalize the past," said Bob. "A return to the past is the best thing we have to look forward to—the past with all its glories, its class, its style.

"There is no class or style today."

EQUAL OPPORTUNITY ONLY

No matter how hard they try, socialist governments can never make all men equal. They do not understand that while men are created equal, some are endowed with greater ability than others and, instinctively, seek the rewards of greater ability as nature, no doubt, intended them to do. All that can be assured is equal opportunity. Any governmental system that confuses the meaning of equality in these matters is destined to end in chaos.

Judging by late reports, this is the condition that is rapidly overtaking Sweden. In that country, according to BARRON'S, National Business and Financial Weekly, the breakdown has" .. showed up clearly in the shattering strike called by teachers and other state employees with advanced university degrees ... The main point at issue ... was the government's campaign for 'equality', which means ... a trend toward leveling out incomes on an after-tax basis."

As part of the leveling out drive, state ownership of business has been rapidly expanded with disastrous results. All of these things are happening in Sweden because of the failure to understand the meaning of equality in the affairs of government and men.

OPEN LETTER ON POLLUTION

The American Petroleum Institute has issued An Open Letter On The Environment to all concerned citizens that is especially timely in the light of recent oil spills and spectacular stories that have spread across the country. In its Letter the Institute says, "Unlike most manufacturers, we deal in a commodity that can pollute at anytime if it is accidentally spilled by us, by a shipper, or by one of our customers. The fuels we produce, which provide three-quarters of all the energy Americans use for heat, transportation, and power, can contribute to air pollution when burned. So we have a wide- ranging and inescapable involvement in aenvironmental problems."

The Letter points out, "Nobody, least of all an oil company, wants an oil spill." It then summarizes some of the works being done by the industry to curb or control these unwanted events. At more than 50 ports, oil companies have formed or are forming cooperative programs to swiftly contained and clean up any oil accidentally spilled. Oil companies have given an unconditional grant of $220,000 to the University of Southern California for an independent study of the effects of the Santa Barbara oil spill on the sea ecology. The Institute is sponsoring a program of research and development on methods of oil spill cleanup. Sulfur content of lighter petroleum fuels, such as gasoline, diesel fuel and home heating oils, has been reduced by more than half since World War II. Similarly, the sulfure content of heavy fuel oils has been dramatically cut. Today's new cars give off less than a third of the unburned gasoline and carbon monoxide produced by cars give off less than a third of the unburned gasoline and carbon monoxide produced by cars of the early 1960's. U. S. oil companies lead all other U.S. industries in expenditures for air and water pollution control.

The Open Letter of the American Petroleum Institute to concerned citizens is reassuring, ing, both for its forthrightness and for the concrete evidence it presents that the oil industry has made pollution control a first order of business.

Interstate Road Code

Tropics and Trends reports that there is a logical pattern for the new interstate highway numbering system. East-West routes are assigned an even one or two digit number. North-South routes receive an odd one or two digit number. Three-digit signs indicate proximity to cities-if the first digit is even, expect to go through or around a city-first digit odd will take you into a city. What all this amounts to is that should you be lost on an unfamiliar interstate road some night, without a map, you would know that you're traveling either East or West, or North or South, or by a city, or into a city.

INCREASED OPPRESSION IN POLAND

The Soviet Communists and their puppets in Warsaw are imposing new repressive measures in stepped-up attempt to crush the spirit of the people of Poland.

Secret Police Chief Mieczyslaw Moczar, under orders from Moscow, has directed his latest moves against Polish patriotism. For example, the first line of the Polish national anthem is "Poland is not yet lost." This anthem has now been officially banned.

Moczar has also banned any reference to the great Polish national hero, Tadeuxz Kosciuszko. This last measure has special significance for citizens of this country. In 1776, at the age of thirty, Kosciuszko left Poland to come to America to volunteer to fight in George Washington's army in our Revolutionary War. He achieved the rank of Brigadier- General, served Washington as an adjutant, and distinguished himself in the battles for New York and at Yorktown. After the war, Congress granted Kosciuszko United States citizenship.

Upon his return to Poland Kosciuszko helped draft the Polish Constitution and to drive back a Russian invasion. He was wounded at Maciejowice and then imprisoned in Russia for two years. Because of his bravery and patriotism he is revered in Poland as a symbol of freedom. It is therefore not surprising that Poland's communist dictators have made Kosciuszko a "nonperson."

It is not likely, however, that these latest measures will succeed in making the Poles docile under communist dictatorship. Earlier persecution, including the Soviet genocide of hundreds of thousands of Polish people after World War II, have not succeeded. The Polish spirit should inspire all of us to value freedom more highly. HLH

Shriver's Old French Connections

Tell What Makes 'Sarge' Run

By Victor Riesel

LONDON --- No newsman worthy of his police identity card can be homeward bound from the Continent without first having searched out Sargent Shriver's French connections. Or without having conversed in out-of-the-way Parisian Left Bank and Soho restaurants here with those who worked closely with the Democratic Vice Presidentail nominee when he was the swiftly moving American Ambassador to France.

One of these, of the highest rank, said the other day: "Sarge is 'beautiful people' but as an administrator he was a disaster." He ran the embassy, tough and furious, as an outpost for his own, not the clan Kennedy's, political interest. Ever since the '50s when he wanted to be governor of Illinois, he has wanted to be President of the U.S. And constantly he saw the elegant embassy and residence, there at the end of the Champs-Elysees, as the beginning of his national political career.

"Sarge," as everybody who knows him loves to call him, is intensely intellectual, Yale cum laude, and to the infinite degree shrewder and more strategically manipulative than George McGovern and the late Ambassador Joe Kennedy (his patron) blended. Shriver's political instinct, according to those who were under him in the ambassadorial years, is to play the youth, the ethnics, the black communities, the whole radical spectrum -- but without understanding their fundamentals.

For example, he would call on his aides to arrange for the rounds of an auto plant. Person-to-person sort of thing. Calls would go out to the union and industry people. A visiting party would be arranged. He'd walk in the plant door -- and dart away from the official party to shake hands with some assembly line worker or shop steward. All much to the annoyance of the French labor leaders who then would remonstrate with the American Foreign Service officials.

There are stories of his visits to Lyons textile mills, Alsatian miners and fishermen in the little Marseille restaurants. Everybody loves to tell them.

But when I was in Paris last March for swift coverage of stories which may soon shake the world's industrial fronts, there were those who asked why the embassy under Ambassador Shriver had done so little in his stewardship to expose the most brutal French connection of all --- the Marseille narcotics Sicilian-Corsican syndicate which has done more to despoil central cities in America than any other force.

Mind you, I was in Paris in March---long before Shriver was a potential President of the U.S.-- as in any Vice Presidential nominee. No one blames "Sarge" for not concentrating on the Marseille mob all the time -- but some of the time would have been helpful.

Yet this was a moment when the narcotics trade was so heavy, and so much of it was coming through France, instead of Western Germany as it is now, that it became an important part of the conversation between Presidents Nixon and Pompidou.

This was just not his saucer of tea, though choking off this heroin flow would have done more for the proletariat back home than a thousand factory visits in France.

I can recall some of us discussing this in a restaurant on the Champs not too far from the Etoile as someone pointed to several men going upstairs to the restaurant's second-floor dining room. They were notorious Corsican racketeers. But under Shriver it just wasn't that kind of embassy. He had a band of very young foreign service officers, bright indeed, who, in effect, would roam the corridors asking embassy officials to come up with chances for the Ambassador to get some visibility. There were sudden calls from his office to his subordinates directing them to get prominent French personalities around to the residence for Friday night "debates." But always "Sarge" appeared to be intellectually chauvinistic. He would favor the left, and the left in France are the mix of successful and powerful Communists and left-wing Socialists.

This created difficulties for the embassy's permanent staff. Constantly they were reproved by those who found it distasteful -- and more -- for the American Ambassador, gracious, charming though he and his wife Eunice are, to be cuddling the enemies of Gaullism and capitalism.

All this came at a very critical period. There had been an upheaval -- a French revolution in all but name -- for six weeks during the late spring of 1968. Ambassador Shriver had not quite understood the nature of the workers' revolt which actually threatened all French institutions with literal anarchy. Even the Communists momentarily lost control of their labor confederation. It was s sensitive moment indeed. Later, Shriver, who took virtually all his guidance on labor matters from the Reuther brothers and their anonymous but influential former aide Jack Conway, decided it was time for the U.S. to launch a "labor program" in France. He wrote to AFL-CIO president George Meany whom he has disliked for years. When Meany read the long letter, he took icicle in hand and said, in effect,, Shriver, here is the labor situation in France...

They've tried to avoid each other ever since. Thus it may well be right through this election.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON -- Republican contributors are being more generous than ever this election year, but unfortunately for the GOP, not all of their donations end up in the party's war chest.

GOP fund raisers are increasingly concerned about a free-lance Washington operation which they think is luring thousands in political funds away from the Republicans.

The outfit is called "The National Republican Statesman." It is an irregularly published tabloid newspaper filled with party propaganda gleaned mostly from press release and other public information.

We have found one case where a 72-year-old California woman in poor health was pursuaded by one of the publication's fund solicitors to donate more than $15,000 in the past nine months.

The solicitor, however, only forwarded $7,000 to the publication's Washington office. Without his colleagues' knowledge, he put the other $8,100 in a bank account of his own in California.

The "national Republican Statesman" generates most of its money by telephone solicitation. Potential contributors are urged to donate so that the publication can be distributed free to as many people as possible.

They are told that distribution of the tabloid will help persuade Democrats and independents to vote Republican. Unless they are specifically asked, the solicitors do not acknowledge that the publication is not affiliated with the GOP.

Irving Page, one of the fund-raisers for the newspaper, explained the reason why: "You just can't chase people away before you talk to them....You can't say it. After all we're in business."

MISSING $8,100

Page insisted, however, that his phone callers do tell potential contributors that the "National Republican Statesman" is "independent." Page was asked about the $15,000 which Judith Crawford of Pasadena, Calif., has given by check to either "The National Republican Statesman" or simply "The Republican Statesman" since last December.

He said a check of the records showed that his organization had only received $7,000 from Miss Crawford. He had no knowledge of any other donations by her.

My associate Brit Hume subsequently determined that Miss Crawford had written three checks totaling $7,000 to "The National Republican Statesman." They were forwarded to Washington and deposited in the publication's bank account.

The remaining $8,100, however, was given in three checks made out to simply "The Republican Statesman." It was deposited in a Los Angeles bank, endorses by a man named Jack Henderson.

Irving Page identified Henderson as a Los Angeles real estate man who spent part of his time helping "The National Republican Statesman" raise money. Henderson was the solicitor who approached Miss Crawford for her donations, Page said.

Henderson, however, could not be reached to explain why he had deposited the $8,100 in a Los Angeles bank without the knowledge of his associates in Washington.

A check of the Los Angeles phone book revealed no publication with the name "Republican Statesman," although that is the name to which the checks totaling $8,100 were written.

Miss Crawford's bank, the Security Pacific National Bank, has asked the United Republican Finance Committee in Los Angeles to investigate. The bank wants to know if the $15,000 "actually reached the official arm or department of the Republican party for which it was intended."

WASHINGTON WHIRL

Flood Benefits -- The flooding brought on by Hurrican Agnes that ravaged sections of Pennsylvania cost many area residents their jobs and may eventually cost Housing Secretary George Romney his job. Romney's Director of Public Affairs, Jim Judge, is doing better, however. His son Jeffrey, 21, has landed a temporary job with HUD in Harrisburg as a courier. His younger son Jonathan, meanwhile, has found a job with the government's Federal Regional Council. Judge insists he didn't get his boys their jobs. All he did was call Harrisburg to find out if any jobs were abailable.

Kee Job -- Rep. James Kee, D—W. Va., who was defeated in the primary last spring, has been making the most of his final months in office. He promptly raised the salary of his daughter, Kirsten Cook, who has worked on his staff for some time. Kee says she earned the raise by working hard. The trouble is that she immediately took off on a five-week vacation.

Grissom Guilty Of Murder

WYNNE, Ark. (AP) — A Circuit Court jury deliberated 48 minutes today before finding Elbert Ray Grissom, 52, of McDougal guilty on three counts of first- degree murder in the April 6 slaying of three law enforcement officers.

The jury of 11 men and one woman recommended life imprisonment for Grissom on each charge.

Grissom showed no emotion when the verdict was read.

Circuit Court Judge Charles W. Light charged the jury when court convened at 9 a.m. today and then both sides presented their closing arguments.

Grissom is charged in the April 6 deaths of Sheriff Doug Batey, 49, and deputies Glenn Archer, 35, and Troy Key, 47, in a shootout at the Grissom home.

The state was asking for life imprisonment for Grissom on each of the three charges.

The prosecution rested its case Wednesday afternoon and 17 minutes later the defense rested without calling a witness.

In testimony Wednesday, Donald Grissom, son of the defendant, said he saw his father open fire on the three officers without warning.

Ordered To Stop Showing Obscene Movies

KENNETT, Mo. (AP) — A southeast Missouri drive- in theater has been ordered to stop showing movies Sheriff Raymond Scott says are obscene.

Circuit Judge William H. Billings of Dunklin County issued a temporary injunction this week against the All-Star Theater in Holcomb. A hearing date on the injunction has not been set.

Scott said he confiscated two films Saturday night after he drove by the outdoor theater and saw scenes "worse than stag movies." He said what he objects to is that the films can be seen from the highway.

One of the movies was called "Women's Liberation," said Scott, "and it certainly did show some liberated women."

The theater's owner claims he spent $12,000 for a fence to block the picture screen from non- customers.

Ann Landers

Friendship Gets Out Of Hand

Dear Ann Landers: I am writing in the hope you will correct an impression which you inadvertently gave your readers regarding Judaism. You said in a column recently, "I have never believed in the Biblical line, 'An eye for an eye and a tooth for a tooth.' If everyone practiced this philosophy we would eventually have a world of blind and toothless people."

It is regrettable that this quote is widely misunderstood by a great many people, Jews included.

"And eye for an eye" literally means that the punishment must never exceed the crime. This piece of legislation was revolutionary in a time when cruel and inhuman punishment was inflicted upon people who perpetrated minor offenses. Even in enlightened England, when a man stole a loaf of bread he was thrown in jail where he often languished until death.

So you see, Ann, this precept is actually a relatively compassionate piece of legislation, thousands of years ahead of its time. Thank you for setting the record straight. --Dr. Jerome Kestenbaum (Norfolk)

Dear Dr. Kestenbaum: I appreciate your interpretation of that frequently quoted Biblical line. Thank you for educating me.

Dear Ann Landers: Yesterday afternoon at about 2:00 p.m. company arrived --unexpected and unannounced. My husband was lying down trying to take a nap. I was in the kitchen preparing food for 18 people who were invited for the next day.

These drop-in guests showed no embarrassment at inconveniencing us. What burned me up more than anything was that my husband offered them the food I had prepared for the next day's company. They made hogs of themselves and practically wiped me out. After they left I had to clean up the mess and start cooking and baking again. I was in the kitchen until 11:00 p.m.

Now my husband isn't speaking to me. He says I humiliated him because I wasn't charming and hospitable. I'd like your comments. --- Miffed With Milton In Montana

Dear Miffed: Husbands should keep their noses out of the kitchen unless they are doing the cooking and baking. Milton had no right to offer the food you had prepared for the following day. When people drop in unexpectedly, the helpless victims (surprised hosts) have no obligation to lay on a feed -- or anything else.

Dear Ann Landers: A few years ago my husband and I became friendly with a couple who seemed interesting and fun to be with. We saw a good deal of them, had a few trips together and became quite close. When they bought a house two blocks from us we were not very happy.

To put it candidly, by that time we were sick of them. They wanted to be in on everything we did, even family affairs where they were out of place. We tried to cool the relationship but they wouldn't take a hint. They began to show up at odd hours of the day and night. Now we know they are crazy.

We refused to answer the door last night when they came over. They knocked on the windows and harrassed us for one solid hour. Then the phone started to ring. We did not answer and they kept us up calling until 2:00 a.m.

What can we do? --- Targets

Dear Targets: A frank talk is in order. Tell them you want to be left alone for a while. Be friendly but firm. If they continue to harrass you, have an attorney write them a letter saying you don't want to make their persistence a legal matter but if driven to it, you will do so.

What's prudish? What's O.K.? If you aren't sure, you need some help. It's available in the booklet: "Necking and Petting ---What Are the Limits?" Mail your request to Ann Landers in care of your newspaper, enclosing 50c in coin and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Army Buddies Have Reunion

Last Saturday 38 members of Company K 140th infantry, who were on the official order that mobilized 101 men and officers from Sikeston, Bertrand, Crowder and Vanduser Dec. 23, 1940 for the remainder of World War II, were re- united after approximately 32 years. Of the original 101 members, 15 were either killed in action, died of wounds or other causes.

The dinner, held at the Knights of Columbus Hall in Sikeston, was served buffet style with the KC's doing the KP.

The hall was decorated with miniature flags and red, white and blue trimmings. Members were greeted by a large "welcome" banner with the 140th regimental crest and replicas of the 35th division shoulder patches.

Nine states were represented at the meeting. California members were acknowledged as being the most determined to attend. The original group is now scattered throughout 14 states, from North Carolina to the east; Michigan to the north; New Orleans to the south; and California to the west.

Preacher's Kids ARE Different

By REV. DAVID POLING

Of all professions and occupations, the preacher's kids seem to be the most discussed, and the most constantly observed in our society. Yet no scientific material has been produced to support the claims that children of clergymen are more wild, or religious, or industrious or successful than the children down the street. There were some statistical studies in "Who's Who" that appeared to indicate a high performance pattern, high achievement cycle that belonged to the youngsters of the manse. But usually, we lived for the comments and clues of neighbors, church members, biographers to tell us about the track record of preacher's kids.

However, a national study has just been completed, the first of its kind touching upon the life and attitudes of the children of clergymen and published in the June 28 issue of Christian Century. In an article, "Children of Clergymen: Do They Fit the Stereotype," Alan Bayer, Laura Kent and Jeffrey E. Dutton have produced a significant document which answers the question they and others have pondered.

In 1969, 250,000 entering freshmen at 390 institutions of higher education filled out a questionnaire. In this group, some 2,200 children of clergymen were identified and the comparative studies of their hobbies, habits, life style and religious loyalties were most revealing.

Motivation and Goals

The national study disclosed that youngsters from the manse do have high motivation in regard to scholastic achievement and academic accomplishment. In their graduating class, the young people from pastor's homes were in the top quarter of their class, some 55 per cent of them compared to 44 per cent from other families. More than 47 per cent of the minister's children had tutored others during high school—compared to 41 per cent of their contemporaries.

In the grant and scholarship field, minister's children got 37 per cent of their grouping on the receiving end—compared to only 18 per cent from others' homes. (This is not a fair comparison, since many of the young people from clergy homes qualify for low-income grants, a favored group in the eyes of some college funds.)

Music

The most dramatic comparison of ministers' children compared to other young people in the population is in the field of music. More than 48 per cent of the men and an amazing 60 per cent of the women entering college from clergy homes played musical instruments. Compare this to 37 per cent of other freshmen and 43 per cent of other women. Music is big in the church and important in the life of clergy families. A large number of stage, television and other show-business personalities got their start in the church choir and the piano in the parsonage.

Religion and Social Ethics

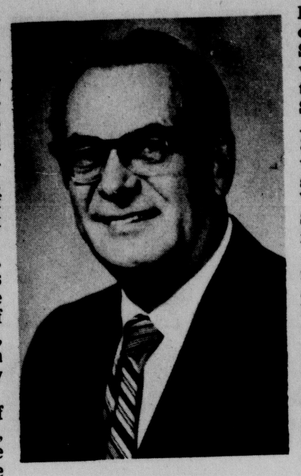
Contrary to some opinion, the survey revealed that children of clergymen did not express disdain or scorn of the religious life. The opposite is true, in their church attendance and in their pursuit of religious concerns. While 28 per cent of the entering class of freshmen said they discussed religion "frequently," a massive 51 per cent of clergy kids indicated their participation.

On the drinking question, 56 per cent of the freshmen class said it drank beer occasionally—31 per cent of the ministers' youth was hitting the same bottle.

Politics

Perhaps it is no accident that George McGovern is active in politics, for other ministers' children show a high interest in government and politics—much higher than their classmates. In the concept of service and motivation toward humanity, the young people from the manse rate hi h.

Sunday School Official Guest At First Church



Rev. William Kirschke

The Rev. William E. Kirschke, national secretary of the Assemblies of God Sunday school department, will be featured speaker tonight at the annual Sunday School Banquet of First Assembly of God Church at 306 South Kingshighway. He will also be speaking in a special Sunday School Worker's Conference Saturday and to the church in both services on Sunday.

An internationally recognized Sunday school authority, the Rev. Mr. Kirschke currently oversees the development and promotion of the Sunday school program for more than 9,000 schools throughout the United States.

"The same motivating force that sent the early church sweeping through the Roman Empire like a fire driven by a hard wind, is available to every Sunday school today," the Sunday school leader firmly states. He believes the Sunday school "is the church's most important single avenue of outreach."

Assemblies of God Sunday schools, with headquarters in Springfield, Missouri, currently have a membership of more than one million. The Rev. Mr. Kirschke's responsibilities in the national office include supervision of six divisions, two publications, and three national field representatives. He travels from coast to coast in the interest of Sunday school speaking in conventions, rallies, workshops, Sunday school revivals, seminars, and training courses.

He also serves as a member of the board of directors for the National Sunday School Association and Vice- President of the Denominational Executive Secretaries Commission, a subsidiary of NSSA and the National Association of Evangelicals.

The Assemblies of God commissioned the Rev. Mr. Kirschke to spend a year in Augstralia in 1960-61 to promote evangelism and Sunday school work. On the return trip he ministered in Indonesia, Singapore, and the Philippines.

He has written The Twentieth Century Challenge to the Church in Building, a book giving the six fundamental laws of Sunday school growth. He has also written numerous magazine articles and pamphlets.

Lay Witness Mission Activities Underway

A prayer vigil began at 6 a.m. Thursday in individual Sikeston Churches as part of the Greater Sikeston Lay Witness Mission, which is planned for this weekend.

On Saturday, a law enforcement breakfast will be held at 7 a.m. at the El Capri and coffees will be held in individual homes at 10 a.m. A soft drink party will be held at 10 a.m. for young people at the Happening on Smith St. Ted and Tim Haynes of Roscoe, Tex., lay witnesses will be at the party.

A luncheon will be held at noon Saturday at the Wesley Methodist Church and between 3 p.m. and 4 p.m. an in depth seminar on soul winning and witnessing will be presented by Ed Morehead at the first church of the Nazarene on Trotter Street. Exiled Russian Church Demands Return Of Property

JERUSALEM (AP) — The fight between the Whites and Reds of Russia is still going on in Jerusalem.

Both sides maintain churches in the holy city.

The Soviet Ecclesiastical Mission, with about 100 nuns and a few priests, has been based since 1948 in a compound and the Church of St. John the Baptist in a Jewish suburb. One of the nuns, the Soviets say, is 102 years old.

The White Russians—the Russian Orthodox Church in exile— comprise about 150 nuns and priests mostly based in a golden-domed church on the Biblical Mount of Olives.

Now the church split, dating back to the 1917 Russian Revolution, has become an issue in Israel's law courts.

Israel became involved when it captured old Jerusalem in the 1967 Middl East war.

"Don't make waves was the password" said Saul Colbi, director of Christian affairs for Israel's Ministry of Religion.

The White Russians demanded that Israel recognize their claims to holy places in Jewish Jerusalem. These, according to the head of the antiSoviet Orhodox Church, Archimandrite Anthony Grabbe, "we were forced to turr over to the avowedly atheistic Soviet government mission in 1948."

According to Colbi, the story is different.

"The Whites were staunchly pro-Arab. When they foresaw Israel's imminent takeover of West Jerusalem in 1948, they fled to the Arab sector.

"When the official Soviet mission requested the properties, they were turned over and on Dec. 31, 1948, the first batch of priests arrived from Moscow," Colbi said.

The White Russians have petitioned the government for return of the properties in West Jerusalem.

The government declined the request and shunted it into the courts, where it has remained for the past four years.

The disputed properties include seven churches, half a dozen tracts in Jerusalem and about 10 more pieces of land throughout the country.

Dictatorship Foreseen Unless Morals Improve

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — A dictator in the United States is inevitable unless the nation's morals improve, Dr. John R. Rice, long-time editor of "The Sword of the Lord," said in an interview last week.

Rice, who has been a baptist minister for 52 of his 76 years, was the keynote speaker for the 14th annual Chritian Crusade convention.

The Murfreesboro, Tenn., evangelist-editor said he "always has been, and continues to be, a firm believer in the American way of life." But he added that "unless the few good currents, I can see are greatly multiplied, I can see no solution for this nation but a dictator."

St. Eustachius School Initiates New Program

PORTAGEVILLE — With the approval of the pastor, Father Amel Shibley, and the Education Committee of the Parish Council, St. Eustachius School in Portageville will initiate a program of individualized learning. This year, grades kindergarten through four will be nongraded.

After extensive testing, each child will begin work at his own readiness or achievement level, and will be allowed to advance according to his own pace. Thus, the program will take care of the child as an individual, Father Shibley said, he will never meet failure.

The parents have been oriented and are actually involved in the preparations. Mothers have carpeted the classrooms, stairways, and halls. They are aiding in the setting up of learning centers for reading, math, language arts, listening, and science in various areas of the classrooms. The fathers have moved desks and furniture, and are setting up quarters for the two CASA Volunteers who will work with the four Sisters of Mercy on the program. Parents are also supplying new playground equipment.

In order to best utilize the talents and training of the teachers, Sister Mary Philothea, R.S.M., director of the Primary Department, will be assisted by all the other teachers of the school, who will act as a team.

Plans include less extensive individualization in grades five through eight; total non- grading is envisioned for 1973-74.

Two Join MDEM Staff

HAYTI — Two new volunteers have joined the staff of the Missouri Delta Ecumenical Ministry (MDEM) in Hayti.

Richard Male, executive director, said Margo English and Don Ingalls will both work primarily with economic development projects in the Bootheel.

Miss English, originally from Midland, Mich., graduated from Ferris State College in 1968 in food service supervision. She also managed a food service cafeteria in Toledo, Ohio.

She recently completed 2½ years as a VISTA volunteer working in the economic development and social services field.

Originally from Storrs, Conn., Ingalls graduated from the university of North Carolina in Chapel Hill this past spring in political science. While in college, he worked with the inter- church council for social service, a delegate body of churches in Chapel Hill working with the poor.

Miss English is being sponsored by the Methodist US-2 program. Catholic Service Associates is sponsoring Ingalls.

Presently, the ministry is involved with the Bootheel Credit Union, Cooperative Supermarket in Howardville, Community Mental Health Training programs, concerned welfare mothers of Pemiscot County and other programs.

All of these projects are attempted around a basic philosophy of organizing people around the needs as the people see them. This has led to the establishment of the now independent Bootheel Agricultural Services incorporated Cooperative (BASIC).

Father Wally Ellinger, past pastor at New Madrid, and now social concerns chairman for the Catholic Diocese, presides over MDEM's 24- member Board of Directors composed of local leaders, poor people and clergy.

The staff, headed by Male, operates out of MDEM's office on Highway 84 west in Hayti.

Sharing Through Witness

How does one witness for his Christian beliefs? He might witness through his spoken testimony for Christ or in his interpretation of life and the universe. Or he might witness through Christian action.

Whatever method we select we must remember that we all have a responsibility to witness to the gospel. We are empowered by the Holy Spirit to do this if we desire.

Our lesson today concerns the coldness and courage of Peter and John who witnessed for Jesus. These men were untrained and unscholarly. They were "people of the land," being "illiterate" in the eyes of the Sanhedrin.

The Temple officials were disturbed by the effectiveness of Peter and John. In spite of their backgrounds, these men were reaching the people. They had been with Jesus and had witnessed His work.

Under the influence of Jesus these disciples were able to reach heights they never had reached before. They had been arrested for their boldness, their bravery in spreading the Word.

Peter and John were devoted to Jesus. But this devotion was not enough. They knew there was a need to witness before others so that the message would spread across the world.

A Reader's Digest article recently noted that "Scarcely anyone seems to approve of the Christian churches today."

This is not a new development. The Temple leaders were not in agreement with the actions of the disciples and sought to curtail their movement.

Peter and John were directly to cease their witnessing. Their freedom of movement was to end because the officials feared them. The church is in trouble when it upsets the rules of the established government.

They turned to Jewish leaders and reminded them that their prophets for years had witnessed to the inner workings of God. "The life of devotion is false without a response in the form of witness." The church that succeeds best is the one that speaks out.

It is a favorite trick of the opposition to throw doubt upon our witnesses. This technique is revealed in our political activities and in our hearings before government agencies.

Peter and John were aware of this. However, they were so sure of the soundess of their message that nothing could stop them.

The disciples had their own backers. They brought into court a man they had healed, revealing their closeness to Christ who gave them the ability to help the ill.

Thus they had "a witness to their witness." Since the court could find nothing wrong with their acts, they had to release Peter and John.

Witnessing is sharing. Many of our newspapers, magazines, and books include examples of personal experiences the writers want to share. "Guideposts" is a magazine of such experience.

Our young people are witnessing more today, although many are doing so in ways unusual for the more formal churches. They are bold in their approach. They are discovering the truth and speaking for it.

There is a natural fear among many persons about too much witnessing in public. Yet when one is as sure of his beliefs as were Peter and John, he can be bold.

Our memory selection reminds us that "we cannot but speak of what we have seen and heard."

When we are as sure of our beliefs as John and Peter were, we have no difficulty in being bold in our witnessing.

45. Moses and Aaron Before Pharaoh

The Lord told Moses to return to Egypt from the Land o Midian and with his wife and sons to help the children of Israe out of their bondage. The Lord sent Aaron, who was to help Moses, out to meet him in the wilderness. "And Moses told Aaron all the words of the Lord who had sent him, and all the signs which he had commanded him."

Exodus 4:28

They went to the elders of the children of Israel and Aaron told them the words of the Lord and showed them the signs the Lord had given him and Moses to help free them from bondage. The elders and people believed what they were told and bowed their heads in worship.

"And afterward Moses and Aaron went in, and told Pharaoh, Thus saith the Lord God of Israel, Let my people go, that they may hold a feast unto me in the wilderness."

Exodus 5:1

Pharaoh was indignant and demanded to know "Who is the Lord, that I should obey his voice to let Israel go? I know not the Lord, neither will I let Israel go."

Moses and Aaron told Pharaoh that the Lord had met with them and all they wanted was time for a three day journey into the wilderness to make a sacrifice to the Lord to prevent his wrath. Of course three days into the wilderness would give them their freedom. Pharaoh wanted to know who they thought they were that they could release the Israelites from their work and commanded them to get back to work.

Bliss Leads State Golf Event

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Donald Bliss, 20, a St. Louis college student, remained as the man to beat today as the Missouri Men's Amateur Golf Tournament entered a double round of match play.

Bliss downed Tim Mehl of Belton 3 and 2 in Thursday's morning round and followed with a 4 and 2 victory over Tom Campbell of Columbia in the afternoon session.

Jim Jackson, a three-time tourney champion of St. Louis, was eliminated by fellow St. Louisan Richard Dalton 1 up while 1966 champion Jim Patton of Springfield lost to Jerome Freeland 3 and 2 in the afternoon. Freeland is from St. Louis.

Otherwise Scott Bess of Columbia, who won the event in 1969, was the only former champion to advance as he went an extra hole to defeat Steve Adkisson of St. Louis in the morning and belted Jim Mason, also of St. Louis, 8 and 6 in the afternoon.

Bess will oppose Jefferson City's Spencer Sappington in the quarter-finals today after Sappington produced 3 and 2 victories over Sid Salamon III of St. Louis and Tom Fisher of St. Charles.

Bliss meets Freeland, who disposed of Dennis Green of St. Louis 4 and 2 before upsetting Patton.

Lower bracket quarter-final pairings today included Dalton versus Blaine Helmer of St. Louis, who went 22 holes during a Thursday morning match to beat Charles Patterson of Sedalia and ousted Bill Ludwig of Kansas City 2 and 1 in the afternoon.

In the other quarter-final, George Biederman of St. Louis will face Bob Weaver of Kansas City. Bierderman beat Dan La Bruyer of Columbia 4 and 3 and Jim Ruck of St. Louis 3 and 2, as Weaver stopped Ben Schulein of St. Louis 3 and 1 and Stewart Shockley of Kansas City 6 and 5.

Additional first round results:

Dalton def. Jim Plummer, St. Louis, 1 up.

Campbell def. Bruce Hollowell, Springfield, 1 up on 19.

Patton def. Don Placke, St. Louis, 2 and 1.

Mason def. Luther Godwin, Poplar Bluff, 1 up on 19.

Fischer def. Roy Ritchey, Liberty, 3 and 2.

Jackson def. Ken Lanning, Rolla, 4 and 3.

Ludwig def. John Simmons, Marshall, 2 and 1.

Shockley def. Terry Tessary, St. Louis, 3 and 2.

Ruck def. Bill Mathews, St. Louis, 5 and 4.

Today's morning quarter-final winners will compete in the afternoon in matched semifinals. Saturday's title match is over 36 holes.

Redskins Have Pleasant Problem

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Washington Redskins Coach George Allen has a quarterback problem—and the other teams in the National Football League are hoping he solves it soon.

Allen's problem is deciding on a starting quarterback—Billy Kilmer or Sonny Jurgensen?

Jurgensen is the 15-year veteran, a former NFL passing champ who holds numerous NFL records and ranks as the league's premier lifetime passer.

Kilmer, meanwhile, is the 10year veteran who came to the Redskins last year and, when Jurgensen suffered a preseason shoulder injury, stepped right in and led the Redskins to a postseason playoff berth.

In order to decide on a starter, Allen has been letting Kilmer work the first half of each of Washington's preseason games, with Jurgensen handling the second half.

And the results have been nothing less than spectacular.

Washington has won all three games played thus far, and won them with ease—33-3 over Baltimore, 41-0 over Denver and 34-10 over Philadelphia.

Kilmer has completed 21 of 41 passes for 294 yards and five touchdowns. Jurgensen has hit on 15 of 23 for 245 yards and four TDs.

All of which means the Detroit Lions, Washington's opponents in tonight's nationally televised exhibition game, figure to have their hands full.

In tonight's only other exhibition contest, the Miami Dolphins host the Atlanta Falcons.

In Thursday night's single game, Houston's Dan Pastorini passed for three touchdowns as the Oilers beat St. Louis 33-24.

The Cardinals scored on a one-yard run by Jim Hart, two TD passes by Gary Cuozzo to Ara Person and Don Heater and a Jim Bakken field goal. But Pastorini hit Ken Burrough for 28 yards, Dennis Hughes for seven and Rhett Dawson for 12, all for touchdowns. Charlie Joiner and Lloyd Walsh also ran for Houston tallies.

Oiler second-year quarterback Lynn Dickey dislocated his left hip in the first quarter. There was no immediate word on how long he would be lost to the team.

Five games are scheduled for Saturday. In the only day contest, Buffalo plays Oakland at Berkeley, Calif. In night action, the New York Jets are at Dallas for a nationally televised game, Minnesota is at Cleveland, Pittsburgh meets Baltimore at Tampa, Fla. and San Diego is at New Orleans.

In Sunday's two day games, Denver is at San Francisco and the New York Giants are at New England. Sunday night, it's Los Angeles at Kansas City for a nationally televised game and Chicago against Green Bay at Milwaukee.

In the wind-up to the five-day weekend schedule, Cincinnati plays at Philadelphia Monday night.

Hawaii Eyes Ruth Championship

PINE BLUFF, Ark. (AP) — Hawaii gained the championship round of the Babe Ruth World Series of the Babe Ruth Wolrd Series here Thursday with a 5-4 victory over previously undefeated Montgomery, Ala.

Once-beaten Prince Georges, Md., kept its hopes alive in the double-elimination event by disposing of defending champ Puerto Rico 5-3 in the other Thursday night game.

Montgomery and Prince Georges play at 8 o'clock tonight for the right to meet unbeaten Hawaii at 1:30 p.m. Saturday.

Byrd Wins

The Missouri - Illinois Pro-Stock Association sponsored a pro-stock show last Friday and Saturday nights at Interstate Dragways.

Winner both nights in the show was Preston Honea from St. Louis driving a 1967 Camaro. Runner up Friday night was Ray Sullins of Newport, Ark. in a 1968 Camaro.

Local winners Friday included Sonny Wayland winning the hot rod and gas elimination. He's from Newport, Ark.

Top stock eliminator was Danny Byrd of Sikeston and Little Stock eliminators were the King Brothers of Cape Girardeau.

Little League Finals Set

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa. (AP) — Taiwan's team in the Little League World Series prepares for a baseball game the way Republicans plan their National convention: everything is worked out in advance.

There's no guarantee the other team will follow the script, but there was no deviation Thursday when Taiwan propelled itself into Saturday's final against Hammond, Ind.

Before their 9-1 victory over Pearl City, Hawaii, manager Lin Hsin-chang told his players:

"Try to exhaust the other pitcher. Wear him out. Just try to hit the ball."

The Asian youngsters did just that, pecking away for single runs in the first, fourth and fifth innings, and scoring twice in the second, third and sixth. However, of the team's 10 hits, only two were for extra bases — a home run by Chiang Fucheng and a double by Lin Chaochin.

Pitcher Lin hurled a masterful game, allowing only one hit — a home run by Kirk Sato — and striking out 15. He fanned the side in three of the six innings.

Hammond reached the finals with its 10-7 triumph Thursday over San Juan, Puerto Rico.

The Indiana team jumped to a 10-2 lead, then held on while San Juan scored once in the fifth and added four runs in the sixth. Three of the sixth-inning runs came across on Eduardo Santos' home run.

Hammond Manager, Peter Vargulich sensed his starting pitcher, Robbie Clark, might tire on the hot day. After the team shot into its big lead, he told Clark to take it easy if he got on base.

That plan didn't work, as Clark circled the bases in the first, second and fourth innings, the only member of his team to score three times. He had a double, was safe on a fielder's choice and was hit by a pitch.

Saturday's final will be about the closest you can come to a rematch of the 1971 finale without matching the same teams. Last year, Taiwan won the championship 12-3 over Gary, Ind., a neighboring city to Hammond.

Softball Tourney Begins

JEFFERSON CITY — Two Southeast Missouri teams are among 40 that will compete for the State softball championship over the weekend.

Benton and Oran will be represented.

Also competing for state honors will be Semo softball stars, John Watkins, Gill Robert and Lindon Duncan who compete with the Jefferson City Rippetto team that is favored to capture the championship. The trio flies up for weekend encounters.

Lions Assist Bulldogs

Another first for the Sikeston high school football season has been announced by the Lions club.

A 20- page program book with pictures of players, coaches, cheerleaders and band members will be sponsored by the Lions club with the proceeds going toward the purchase of a whirlpool for SHS.

The need for a whirlpool came about early this week when some of the Bulldog grid prospects came up lame after two hard weeks of work and couldn't obtain the services of a machine in town.

This is one of many contributions that the community has made toward the SHS grid program this season and new head coach, Pete Cirrantano, has had nothing but praise for the assistance that the towns people and community has rendered.

"This has to be the greatest community of its size," coach Cirrantano noted. "It's great to be a part of it."

News Staffs Methods Differ At Convention

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — High, high above the convention floor, less than an hour before air time, Walter Cronkite looked at his desk with concern. Someone had sawed off one end.

"Someone cut up my desk last night," he said more in reproach than anger. "It's got to be fixed in the next 45 minutes. Someone should have asked me before they cut it up. I don't have any place to put my papers."

The order for repair given, Cronkite turned back to his homework — a collection of notes and reference books that supports and succors television anchormen during the hours they are on the air.

It all seems so easy and relaxed on the air, the John Chancellors, David Brinkleys, Harry Reasoners, Howard K. Smiths — all wise and knowing, patient and quick-witted, explaining, predicting and pointing out the action — and filling the time with humor when things are dull.

They sit in their eagles nest, up where the baskets of red, white and blue balloons in baskets waited for Richard Nixon's sure nomination, up where the hundreds of bright lights are, up with the flags and the air conditioning ducts, up with a view of the convention floor that is breathtaking in scope and color.

To the viewer, perhaps, the choice of networks is a matter of personalitities — Cronkite's father-figure on CBS, the spark that jumps between Chancellor and Brinkley, the bristle that snaps around Smith and Reasoner.

Their ways, however, are as different as the networks' way of doing things. They are the visibles ones and everything radiates out in concentric circles.

Cronkite is in control of technical gadgetry, where he can bring in any of 99 voice channels from correspondents, producers, film, tape, or the platform to guide him. In another hall, Robert Wussler, the CBS executive producer, makes the decisions about which of 20 or more television images goes on the air.

Brinkley and Chancellor have only the unobtrusive ear plugs and telephones. Their guidance comes from NBC News President Reuven Frank and executive producer George Murray, also in a hall next door.

ABC's Reasoner and Smith are not in the hall at all. Their coverage is from an off-convention hall studio.

The three networks have set up a city of converted house trailers, both inside and outside the hall. Each network has around 500 people to put the show on the air. NBC even has such disparate items as six orthopedic beds, a boat on standby to transport key personnel in event of a traffic tieup, and 50 bottles of sun-tan lotion for personnel on outdoor locations.

Even unforseen items like a missing piece of desk can be solved. Ten minutes before air time, while Cronkite was getting on his television makeup, two stagehands left the aerie. When the smiling Cronkite came on with "good afternoon," the desk was good as new.

Don Gibson, 30 Year Country Music Man

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Don Gibson has been plucking a guiter and grinding out country music for 30 years. But don't look for that good ole homegrown country boy image, it just isn't there.

As one experienced Nashville folk artist recently remarked. "Gibson's not like the hardcore country music pickers around here. When a guy gets a chance to play with him, a lot of them usually do it for nothing. He's a soulful dude, man."

The comment was more of a build-up for Gibson than a disparaging remark toward country music old timers.

Earning the wide respect of young and old music fans hasn't been exactly easy for Gibson. He waged-and woan embittered battle with drugs for eight years.

And he has a lingering habit of putting himself in the background while others attain massive popularity off his songs. Example: "I Can't Stop Loving You," which has been recorded by 150 artists, including Ray Charles and Elvis Presley, and sold about 15 million copies.

Now, life has taken on new dimensions for Gibson, 40. The impression is that he's not changing directions .... just shifting gears.

"In the past year, I think my life in music has just begun," he said while lounging in a plush chair and sipping a drink in the swank Nashville office of Buddy Lee, a booking agent.

It was about a year ago that Gibson signed a long-term contract with Lee. An intensely private man, Gibson has seldom performed frequently-content to live in the East Tennessee resort town of Gatlinburg and write several well received songs yearly.

But since the contract, he has moved to Nashville and is gigging 10 to 15 times monthly. And, in the planning stages, is an idea for Gibson to tour with his own troupe, which is still 4 or 5 months off.

In his first interview since coming to Nashville, Gibson reflected on his long career, begun at 14 years old in Shelby, N. C. He said he would do it all over again if he had to, but:

"I feel like my better writing is yet to come," he added, glancing toward his lovely wife as if to summon some moral support. She smiled in a reassuring way.

"All my big songs were written when I was on pills. That's kinda hard to figure. I'd just walk off into the woods and be perfectly content to sit alone by a tree with my guitar."

His wife, sitting beside him, look somewhat dazed by the remark. She quickly reminded him that "I Can't Stop Loving You" and "Lonesome Me," were written by Gibson when he was off pills. He smiled and nodded approvingly.

"My wife has helped me more than anything," he said.

"I lived in hell for eight years. After taking drugs that long you begin to think that all of life is like that .. you know, taking tranquilizers to bring you down and other pills to offset the tranquilizers."

He paused, lipped the rim of his glass, and smiled: "It feels pretty damn good to breathe air and have a good life."

Gibson maintains that he doesn't need to change his tyle of singing. But there's little doubt that his last song, "Sensuos Woman," is of a different genre for him.

' friend told me that "Sensuous Woman's was a hit but that the country music crowd doesn't understand the word "sensuous," he said. "I don't think they care about the word either. It's the feeling and the emotion that gets across to the people."

Something is getting across, because the song is near the top of all country music charts. The title is indicative enough of the song's content, as is one line in it: "Release my body and let me live again."

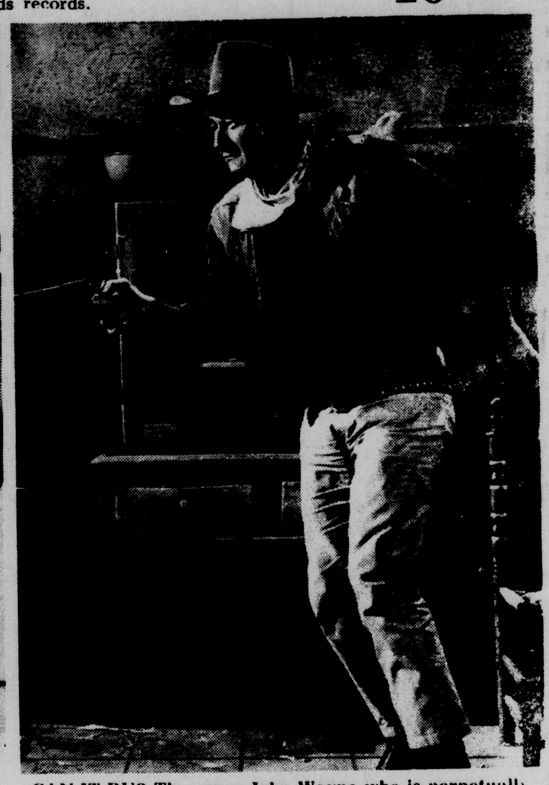
Gibson readily admits that the guitar is his first love and that lyrics aren't bis bag.

"That's where I find my biggest problem, is in lyrics," he said.

"I had a guy in this business say that I wrote too simple. Well, It's pretty hard to be simple. You can't create simplicity," he reasoned.

But simple lyrics, blended with a flashy guitar, have brought immeasurable success to Gibson. In all, he has written about 400 songs, almost half of which have been recorded, like "Legend In My Time," and Aweet Dreams."

"I'm portraying what I feel," he says of his songs. "If that comes out commercial that's good, and if it doesn't, what I feel." By commercial he like it's written only to sell that's good too because I do meant something that sounds records.



CAN IT BE? The same John Wayne who is perpetually charging, full of righteous indignation, to rescue somebody from a bad guy of one kind or another, dressed up in a bunny costume? Yes, it can be, which ought to prove wrong all those people who say Duke lacks a sense of humor. Wayne, though did not appear overjoyed at the prospect, agreed to play the Easter Bunny for comedienne Sarah Kennedy on television's Rowan and Martin's Laugh-In.

What's The Law?

The Case Of The Gracious Competitor

By Jack Strauss, LL.B

Ike and Mike were the only two undertakers in a small town and, as far as each was concerned, the other was two many. Consequently they constantly dueled each other for whatever business was around. And while Ike was obvious, he was also more devious.

As an example, he gathered the names of every sick person in town and graciously sent them a card bearing Mike's name. It read in effect: "BEAR IN MIND OUR UNDERTAKING SERVICES. SATISFACTION GUARANTEED."

Upon learning of the advertisement, Mike's stovepipe hat nearly collapsed. In fact, he was so furious, he sued Ike for substantial damages.

"My heavens," he complained in court. "Putting my name to those cards was the most dastardly deed ever. It ruined my reputation and destroyed my business. After all, who but an insensitive ghould would try to sell undertaking services to a sick person?"

"Who needs it more," was Ike's answer. "The fact is I did Mike a favor and he just doesn't appreciat it. Looking at it objectively, those cards couldn't and didn't hurt him or his business one bit."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you may Ike pay damages for soliciting business for Mike?

This is how the judge ruled: YES! The judge held that a man's reputation, although invisible and intangible, exists and is prized by men. If it is injured, as Mike's was by the tactless cards, he is entitled to collect damages.

Critics Pick Composition

WASHINGTON (AP) — Seventy-six music critics and publishers who responded to a questionnaire have named Benjamin Britten's "War Requiem" as the most significant composition of the past 25 years.

The two works which were runners-up were "St. Luke's Passion" by Krzysztof Penderecki and "Mass" by Leonard Bernstein, composed for the opening of the John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts, which conducted the poll.

It was done to help the center program a music festival called "The Old and the New," which will be held at the center from Aug. 30 through Sept. 10, featuring more than 30 concerts of 17th, 18th and 20th century compositions.

The results of the survey, in which questionnaires were sent to 500 critics and publishers, were announced by Julius Rudel, the center's music director who devised the program, and Martin Feinstein, executive director of performing arts.

Britten's "War Requiem" will be heard during the festival with Rudel conducting. "St. Luke's Passion" was not scheduled, since the National Symphony will play it during the fall.

Two other works which placed high in the most-significant poll, "Mass" and "Jesus Christ Superstar," were not included since they recently concluded runs at the Kennedy Center.

Deliberations Delay Detroit Desegration

CINCINNATI (AP) — A massive desegregation plan for Detroit area schools will not be implemented when classes open Sept. 6 because of deliberations on an appeal before the 6th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals.

The plan issued June 14 by U.S. District Court Judge Stephen J. Roth of Flint, Mich., involves metropolitan Detroit and 52 suburban school districts.

It would have involved the busing of 40,000 students across district lines this fall.

The appeals court also let stand, pending a decision on the appeal, Judge Roth's order that the State of Michigan purchase 295 buses to implement the desegregation plan this fall.

Judge Harry Phillips said a delay in the decision would be necessary because "of the size of this record and complexity of the issues involved." There was more than three hours testimony Thursday.

Officials said such cases normally take as long as eight weeks to prepare.

Arguments were presented by attorneys for the Detroit School Board, the suburban districts involved, the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, which brought the suit that led to Roth's busing plan, and the State of Michigan.

The court's delay in action followed the guidelines established in a law signed by President Nixon July 1, although Circuit Judge George Edwards sharply questioned a federal official about the statute.

The act orders postponement pending full appeal of all new district court desegregation orders requiring busing as a means of achieving balance in race, sex, religion or economic status.

The NAACP challenged the constitutionality of the law, an amendment to the 1972 Higher Education Act, in another action.

16 Die In 36 Car Pile Up

BREDA, Netherlands (AP) — At least 16 persons perished in a fiery chain of death after a tanker truck collided with another truck, exploded and sent an impact through 36 other vehicles groping along a fogbound highway near Rotterdam this morning.

The rush-hour disaster was the worst traffic accident the Netherlands has ever had. Forty persons were hurt seriously.

The line of cars and trucks smashed and jolted or otherwise affected stretched for 10 miles north from the Breda traffic circle at Prinsenbeek.

Witnesses told of a seriously injured woman trying in vain to rescue her child after a truck struck their car. They said a man who tried to jump out of a truck to safety drowned i a stretch of water lining the fourlane motorway.

Twenty ambulances were rushed to the scene. The rescue operation was hindered by fears that a refrigerated tanker, carrying a chemical liquid inflammable at a temperature of 39 degrees, might explode.

According to the Bible, three types of trees grew in the Garden of Eden—fruit-bearing trees, the tree of life and the tree of knowledge.

Price 'Adjustments' Approved

WASHINGTON (AP) Selective price "adjustments"—to cover the cost of optional equipment that will become standard on 1973 models—have been approved by the Price Commission for the big four auto-makers.

The commission said Thursday the average increase would be $8 for Ford Motor Co., $4.38 for General Motors, $1 for American Motors and $12.53 for Chrysler.

The additional equipment for Ford ranges from power disc brakes to a spare tire lock, for General Motors from disc brakes to bumper guards on some models. Chrysler's equipment ranges from electric ignition to cargo area carpeting, while American Motors listed a rear-door armrest and fuel-tank skid plate.

The commission said the cost of 1973 models will be no higher than the cost of similarly equipped current models.

The commission also formally suspended general price-hike requests from the big four until after hearings on auto prices set to begin Sept. 12.

... seems to raise the most serious questions of violation of federal criminal statutes."

A spokesman for the Justice Department said the material is under study. A Senate Judiciary subcommittee also has copies of the letters.

One letter, from William A. Powell, president of Mid-America Dairymen, Inc., which contributed $65,000 to Republican coffers, said:

"The facts of life are that the economic welfare of dairymen does depend a great deal on political action. If dairymen are to receive their fair share of the governmental financial pie that we all pay for, we must have friends in government....

"We dairymen as a body can be a dominant group. On March 23, 1971, along with nine other dairy farmers, I sat in the Cabinet room of the White House, across the table from the President of the United States and heard him compliment the dairymen on their marvelous work in consolidating and unifying of our industry and our involvement in politics. He said, 'You people are my friends and I appreciate it.'

Number 531 Killed In Ireland

BELFAST (AP) — A British soldier was killed early today, the 14th in two weeks, by a sniper who fired three shots at a patrol in North Belfast. His death brought Northern Ireland's three-year fatality toll to at least 531, more than 300 of them this year.

Another soldier was badly wounded when a gunman opened fire on a foot patrol in Londonderry. The army claimed to have hit a gunman on the roof of a building in another part of Londonderry, near the Bogside Catholic district.t

The Provisional wing of the Irish Republican Army came under new pressure to stop its bombing and shooting campaign. Appeals for a cease-fire came from priests, politicians, and civil rights and community leaders — and from the Marxist-oriented Official wing of the IRA. The Officials laid down their arms in favor of political action some weeks ago.

The Civil Rights Association in Newry, where nine people were killed in an explosion Tuesday, sought a meeting with Sean McStiofian, the Provos chief of staff. The association accused the Provos of "a callous disregard for public life."

Priests, who have been preaching reconciliation between Catholic and Protestant communities, deplored the rising death toll. And the Social Democratic and Labor party Ulster's pro-Catholic party, also denounced the bombings.

The IRA Officials charged the bombing campaign was "one of the greatest causes of sectarianism at the present time." The Provisionals accused the Officials of hypocrisy.

A Belfast court ordered the deporting of an American believed involved with the IRA. He was Ronald Alfred Hirsch, 34, an actor from New York who admitted his visa had expired. Officials said a notebook found on him had the names of IRA members in it and a London address connected with the IRA.

Anthony Fokker, Dutch airman, pioneer aircraft designer and manufacturer, whose planes were used extensively by the German air force in World War I, died a naturalized American citizen in New York.

Nixon Enjoying Campaigning Again

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (AP) — President Nixon obviously is enjoying his return to the campaign circuit. He seems to be joking more in public.

After dedicating a high school in Utica, Mich. Thursday, enroute here, he was so pleased with his reception from a largely teen-age audience that he summoned newsmen and told them, "After that I'm for reducing the voting age to 12."

Later, at an airport rally in San Diego, entertainer Art Linkletter told Nixon, and an audience of several thousand, that he had dined with Mrs. Nixon Sunday night and Monday morning in Miami Beach while the President was at Camp David in Maryland's Catoctin Mountains.

"I just want to keep the record straight," Nixon interjected. Referring to Linkletter, he said:

"He has also slept in the White House. He slept in the Queen's Room. When Pat's room is being painted or anything, she sleeps there, so we can say that Art Linkletter has slept in Pat's bed."

Revise Regulations After Soldiers Death

FORT LEONARD WOOD, MO. (AP) — Army officials here say training regulations are being revised in connection with an investigation into the death of a 17-year-old soldier following a forced march on August 2.

Private Steven P. Gasser of Madison, Wis., died of heatstroke after falling out of a formation. Several other soldiers who also fell out of the five-mile march were treated at the base hospital.

Ken Clayton, a civilian public information officer at the base, said Wednesday a letter of instruction is being prepared for training officers and drill instructors. He said it covers the subject of communications from the back to the front of training marches.

Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton, D-Mo., has asked the Army for a report on the investigation of the soldier's death, which is still under way.

Milk Support Increases Followed Contributions

WASHINGTON (AP) — Large campaign contributions by dairymen's organizations to President Nixon's re-election campaign helped influence a decision to raise 1971 federal milk price supports, according to letters uncovered in a lawsuit and reported today by The Washington Post.

Reports of the timing of the campaign contributions with a decision to increase federal milk price supports from $4.66 to $4.93 per hundredweight on March 25, 1971, had been published previously. The decision reversed an earlier announcement on March 13 that price supports would not be increased.

But the Post said its information shows that officials of one large dairymen's organization believe their contributions helped bring about the reversal on the price supports, which increased total support payments to the industry by as much as $700 million.

The Post said it obtained the information from letters in connection with a lawsuit brought by the National Farmers Organization against major national dairy cooperatives.

It also said NFO attorney Ward Rowley has forwarded the letters to Atty. Gen. Richard Kleindienst with the statement that "this material

Four More Planes Lost; Six Fliers Are Missing

SAIGON (AP) — Three American fighter-bombers were lost over North Vietnam last weekend, a fourth was downed today and six of the eight fliers are missing, the U.S. Command announced.

This raised losses over North Vietnam to 82 planes and 91 missing airmen since the resumption of full-scale bombing on April 6, the Command said. North Vietnam has announced the capture of more than 20 of the fliers.

The weather over the North cleared somewhat Thursday, and American planes flew more than 310 strikes, the largest number in a week. The Command said its fliers knocked out 25 warehouses, 10 ammunition storage buildings, 15 bridges and 31 water supply craft.

The Command launched an investigation today into a charge by Peking that American bombers attacked a lifeboat from a Chinese merchant ship off the coast of North Vietnam on Tuesday and killed five men.

Peking termed the attack "a grave provocation against the Chinese people" and called on United States to "guarantee against the recurrence of similar incidents."

Peking said the captain of the ship, a deputy political commissar and three seamen were killed. It claimed that the boat was flying the Chinese flag and that the American planes circled it at low altitude repeatedly "for reconnaissance before the bombing."

The U.S. Command admitted that Navy planes attacked a water craft Tuesday off Hon Ngu Island, 11 miles northeast of the port of Vinh.

This was the location specified by Peking. But while the Chinese claimed that the craft was a lifeboat from the merchant ship Hon Gai No. 151, the U.S. Command described it as a 30-foot water supply craft trying to circumvent the American mine blockade of North Vietnam's ports.

A preliminary statement from the command did not identify the nationality of the craft. The pilots from the carrier Oriskany who made the attack were being questioned, and operational reports were being rechecked.

Stabbing Evidence Examined

Police are making definite progress in solving Wednesday afternoon's stabbing of Henry J. Kent, 56, of Box 237A, according to detective Leonard Campbell.

Yesterday Campbell and detective Dan Hinton took several pieces of evidence to the Southeast Missouri Crime Laboratory in Cape Girardeau for analysis. Being examined by the lab are a knife, a shirt, and undershirt, a letter, and a billfold.

Campbell refused to say where the knife was found.

Police have been unable to talk with Kent since the stabbing. He has been kept in the intensive care ward of Missouri Delta Community Hospital with a knife wound in the chest.

Campbell said he was told by Kent's doctor that the knife did not penetrate the body cavity, but rather slid up under the skin.

According to the story police were able to get from Kent before he was placed in intensive care, his car was stopped by two men in a red pick up truck on Illinois Street just south of Ables Road. The men then attacked and robbed him.

Police Urge Drivers To Use Caution

Police are asking motorists to drive carefully and watch for chilren crossing streets now that the new school year is beginning.

Safety Officer Richard Couch, said with help from motorists, the city can be safe for students. He suggested slower driving speeds and anticipating the unexpected.

"All you have to do is just drive the way you would expect others to drive if your children were on the streets," Couch said.

Couch said there were 296 traffic accidents in the city in the first six months of the year. There were 52 injuries and one fatality. The majority of the accidents, he said, were caused by failure to yield right of way, failure to stop at stop signs, and speeding.

Speeders will receive special attention from the police, Couch said. Radar units will be placed around schools once a week to control speeding.

Nixon's Slogan Proves Catchy

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (AP) — Predicting he will win the November election "twice as big" as in 1968, President Nixon says he wants four more White House years to pursue what he terms a "breakthrough for peace" in dealings with Peking and Moscow.

Nixon spanned the continent Thursday — just hours after accepting renomination by the Republican party at Miami Beach. It quickly became apparent that the convention chant of "Four More Years" will be the official litany if not the announced slogan of his drive to defeat his Democratic opponent, Sen. George McGovern.

Patrol Site Decision Expected Within Month

JEFFERSON CITY -- Co. E. I. (Mike) Hockaday, superintendent of the Missouri Highway Patrol, said today that a final decision may be made within a month on the site for the new Troop E headquarters.

"We'd like to get started," he said. The headquarters are currently located in Poplar Bluff.

Hockaday said architects have been looking at sites in Cape Girardeau, Sikeston, Dexter, Bloomfield, and Poplar Bluff. The decision will rest on the availability of the site, its size, the availability of utilities, traffic flow, accessibility to highways, and the projected growth of the community.

Sikeston city officials believe the Sikeston sites meet those requirements better than any offered by other cities. Sikeston is offering several large sites, complete with utilities. City officials are stressing the city's central location in regards to the heavy traffic along Interstates 55 and 57, and the future growth expected here.

One possible problem clouds the possibilities that any city other than Poplar Bluff will be the site: Hockaday said the patrol would have to consider the 15-20 families affected by shifting locations. Moving them, he said, would be quite a problem.

Hockaday said the sites are being evaluated and those thought unsuitable will be eliminated. A more intensive survey of the remaining sites may then be ordered.

"I think it would be foolish to rush into something without weighing the possibilities," Hockaday said.

Hockaday added that political pressures have dropped in recent weeks. At first, he said, there was considerable action among politicians, but the inquiry today by the Daily Standard, was the first interest shown in the last 10 days.

Hearnes To Dedicate 68 Mile Link Of I-55

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — A 68-mile segment of Interstate 55, southeast Missouri's superhighway, will be dedicated next Wednesday at Perryville, the state Highway Department announced.

The new section provides drivers with a divided highway — two lanes in each direction — for 205 miles from St. Louis to near the Arkansas line.

Gov. Warren E. Hearnes will be the featured speaker at the 10:30 a.m. dedication.

When contracts were let three years ago, the 68-mile section between Festus in Jefferson County and Fruitland in Cape Girardeau County, became the largest continuous stretch of interstate highway under construction in the nation, highway officials said.

The northern half of the section, from Festus to Brewer in Perry County, was opened to traffic late last year. The southern Half, from Brewer to Fruitland , is being completed this week.

When the barricades come down, only a small portion of the route will remain incomplete between St. Louis and Memphis. This is 13-mile segment from Hayti to four miles north of the Arkansas line, which is under construction and expected to be completed by the fall of 1973.

Of Missouri's planned 1,147-mile interstate system, the I-55 opening will bring the state's total to 876 miles to or near interstate standards and in operation.

In another announcement, Chief Engineer Robert Hunter said the department is relaxing restrictions on wide loads for the next two weeks so 12-foot-wide mobile homes can be moved toward the Pennyslvania area for disaster relief.

Movement through Missouri will be permitted on Saturday and Sunday and at night on certain routes, Hunter said. Well lighted escorts will be required, he said.

Mobile homes are being sent to Pennsylvania to house persons left homeless by hurricane Agnes.

THE NEW EDUCATION

Grades, written examinations and major subjects are coming under attack at our universities. Students, renowned for their verbal proclivities, prefer to talk about society in general terms.

Talking is their idea of education. From what they hear on television, students proceed as though they are prepared to talk at length on any subject. The traditional purpose of higher education, mastering specific knowledge as the basis of a lifelong educational process, is discarded in favor of kibitzing. This is the new education.

But how new is it? A century ago Harvard abolished required courses. Students flailed about in interdisciplinary studies, designing their own curricula. The Harvard administration steadfastly held to this "reform" for decades before admitting that it was a disaster.

During the 1920's the Soviet Union abolished, among other things, the study of history and foreign languages. "Broad concepts" of sociology were emphasized. Homework, written tests and the like were replaced by discussions. Students then, as now, did not mind getting credit for superficial chit-chat.

But the Kremlin rulers found that their subjects were not learning. People who have not mastered educational basics cannot hope to discourse about "broad concepts." The U.S.S.R. scrapped the new education, as Harvard had done.

In the U.S., however, more colleges are adopting these "reforms," shown to be unproductive a half-century ago. The new education is such an intellectual sham that its proponents do not even know it has failed before.

OLD BLACKSMITH SHOP

Weather- beaten blacksmith shops have gone. Engines have replaced horses and yesteryear's shops are spick and span filling stations. The countryman has watched revolutionary changes over half a century and he is opposed to them. Eight miles an hour behind a chunky Morgan roader is fast enough to go through life.

The old shop was dark, pungent - smelling and cluttered. Windows were smudged with cobwebs; the floor was deep with hoof pairings, debris and dirt. In one corner was a pile of old horse shoes. New shoes hung on rafters overhead — big ones for work horses, small ones for ligh roaders.

It was always good news on a rainy day when a lad was told to take the team to the shop. The blacksmith was a friend who told stories of farm life after the Civil War. He worked the bellows, took a red hot shoe and pounded it to shape. He dunked it in a tub of scummy water and grayish smoke billowed up among the rafters.

Quickly he lifted a leg and the acrid smell of burning hoof filled the shop. A farm boy had learned early that the hot shoe did not hurt the horse. Sometimes the shoe had to be reheated and fitted. When it was ready, the blacksmith drove the nails home with quick hard strokes; he twisted off the nail ends and then smoothed the hoof with a heavy rasp.

Farm boys no longer take work horses or sleek roaders to a blacksmith shop. But a countryman knows that a tractor or a car cannot whinny a friendly greeting, and a modern garage is not the same as the old blacksmith shop.

This surely must reflect the inflation of our times. The million dollar ransom paid for the safe return of Mrs. Harry C. Pipe, jr., of St. Paul, Minn., and then another million dollars paid to the jijackers of a U. S. airliner which eventually landed in Algiers. Bonnie and Clyde were pikers compared to these criminals.

Since we're still arguing over the death penalty in this country, maybe we should work out a plan that the money paid to hijackers and kidnapers should be treated with a chemical so it will disintegrate within several days after the pay-off.

YOUTHFUL VOTERS

Since the beginning of the 1972 presidential campaign, the youth vote has been courted, polled, counted in the primary elections, and analyzed for its political leanings. Now the laggards among the 25 million potential voters between ages 18 and 24 are being urged officially to take the first step that makes all the courting and polling matter. President Nixon has proclaimed September as National Voter Registration Month, with the emphasis on getting the 11.2 million 18-to-21- year -olds onto the rolls. No one claims to have precise current figures, but the Democratic National Committee said in July that only half of this group had signed up.

Presidential proclamations are more ceremonial than inciting to action. More decisive for Republican chances in November will be the activities of a party group called Young Voters for the President; it has a plan calling for 125,000 volunteers to work at recruiting young Nixon voters. For incentive, the volunteers have the results of a July 23 Gallup Poll showing that non-registered youths favor the President over Sen. Geroge McGovern by 46 to 43 per cent. Registered voters among the 18 to 24 year-olds favor McGovern by 50 to 43 per cent.

One of the political verities of 1972 is that the youth vote could swing the election, but in that role it is merely one segment among nany. Persons over 24 years of age make up 82 per cent of the total number of eligible voters. The Census Bureau reports that 43 is the median age for the electorate in November. In his proclamation, President Nixon said he hopes the base of the electorate will be broadened during September. Perhaps a scattering of over -65s may be lured onto the voting rolls.

WOULD YOU BUY A USED CAR FROM THESE PEOPLE?

Some of us were reminded recently of an unpleasant 1968 campaign poster that had candidate Richard Nixon on it, along with the question, "Would you buy a used car from this man?" The reminder was an article in the Sunday supplement Parade, reporting that two university psychologists had found that the public rates labor union officials, politicians and used car salesmen (in that order) at the bottom of the ladder in terms of trust.

This ought to be a valuable reminder to members of the G.O.P. Platform Committee, who are going to be asked several days from today to put together an honest statement that converts their reading of the mood of the nation into hard campaign promises.

In terms of this "who do you trust" business, the subject of labor law would seem to demand a strong, positive statement calling for an end to the Federal government's sanctioning of compulsory unionism.

Anything less would be an obviously dishonest grandstand play that would completely ignore the public pulse — about which the drafters of the Republican Platform have an abundance of information.

Start with the Republican's own survey of voter attitudes, disclosed recently by Platform Committee Chairman Rep. John J. Rhodes. According to this poll, which drew nearly 8,000 responses, more people (64%) think curbing the power of labor union bosses is a "very important" issue than think ending the U. S. role in Southeast Asia fighting (54%) is.

Guaranteeing every man the right to join a union or to refrain from joining a union without losing his job would be the first step in doing this.

On top of the Republican Party survey are the findings of Opinion Research Corp., of Princeton, N.J., on the country's foremost public opinion study organizations.

In a mid-May series of interviews, just made public, ORC found that 62% of the people favor letting a man work whether or not he belongs to a labor union, and 68% feel there is "too much power concentrated in the hands of the labor leaders of the big unions in this country."

If the Republican Platform Committee could ask for anything clearer, it comes in ORC's findings that 67% of the Republicans questioned said they want a statement in this year's platform "that says each person has the right to get and hold any job whether or not that person belongs to a labor union." These are Republican voters talking about the Republican platform!

A party platform telling the voters of America that political priorities come second to the overwhelming demand for a national Right to Work law would do a lot to raise the trust level of the G.O.P.

NEW YORK (AP) — Of all the individualists in Hollywood, Robert Redford is perhaps the most individual.

The actor, currently starred in "The Candidate," an uncompromising look at politics, seldom runs with the herd and insists on being his own man.

"Bob Redford is a solid, confused citizen" is the way he describes himself—with a wry grimace. A lifelong victim of wanderlust, he prizes the "mystery and privacy of life," and says, "I never have been comfortable except at the beach, the desert or the mountains.

"I like places where the people put no demands on you," he remarked. "You are what you are, and you create your own existence. I love space, freedom and the outdoors, wandering through unexplored territory where you don't feel under constant pressure."

Tall, handsome Redford became a candidate for matinee idoldom with his rousing and likable role in "Butch Cassidy and the Sun Dance Kid." But the idea of being pigeonholed in any way is repellent to him. He feels that modern life tends too much to package man and label him.

"I operate on the principle that you should always keep from feeling completed—to feel that you always have somewhere else to go, and something more to find out, and to be free of tags and labels. That's the only way to stay alive.

"The idea is to play tag with life, but never be 'it.' Then you are free to grow."

Bob led a feckless playboy existence until his career ripened and matured him.

"From 18 to 21 in college I drank myself into oblivion every day," he recalled. "Then I decided that was stupid and a waste of time.

"Now I think that perhaps one of my best qualities is that I try to think myself out—and I still find I'm a stranger to myself sometimes."

Redford is strongly critical of the conforming tendencies of American civilization.

"We are being robbed of our sensual pleasures," he said. "We eat pills instead of food. We are headed for a stratified, sterilized existence in which everything will be packaged for us, and we'll have no choices left."

What is the answer?

"The only hope we have is to revitalize the past," said Bob. "A return to the past is the best thing we have to look forward to—the past with all its glories, its class, its style.

"There is no class or style today."

EQUAL OPPORTUNITY ONLY

No matter how hard they try, socialist governments can never make all men equal. They do not understand that while men are created equal, some are endowed with greater ability than others and, instinctively, seek the rewards of greater ability as nature, no doubt, intended them to do. All that can be assured is equal opportunity. Any governmental system that confuses the meaning of equality in these matters is destined to end in chaos.

Judging by late reports, this is the condition that is rapidly overtaking Sweden. In that country, according to BARRON'S, National Business and Financial Weekly, the breakdown has" .. showed up clearly in the shattering strike called by teachers and other state employees with advanced university degrees ... The main point at issue ... was the government's campaign for 'equality', which means ... a trend toward leveling out incomes on an after-tax basis."

As part of the leveling out drive, state ownership of business has been rapidly expanded with disastrous results. All of these things are happening in Sweden because of the failure to understand the meaning of equality in the affairs of government and men.

OPEN LETTER ON POLLUTION

The American Petroleum Institute has issued An Open Letter On The Environment to all concerned citizens that is especially timely in the light of recent oil spills and spectacular stories that have spread across the country. In its Letter the Institute says, "Unlike most manufacturers, we deal in a commodity that can pollute at anytime if it is accidentally spilled by us, by a shipper, or by one of our customers. The fuels we produce, which provide three-quarters of all the energy Americans use for heat, transportation, and power, can contribute to air pollution when burned. So we have a wide- ranging and inescapable involvement in aenvironmental problems."

The Letter points out, "Nobody, least of all an oil company, wants an oil spill." It then summarizes some of the works being done by the industry to curb or control these unwanted events. At more than 50 ports, oil companies have formed or are forming cooperative programs to swiftly contained and clean up any oil accidentally spilled. Oil companies have given an unconditional grant of $220,000 to the University of Southern California for an independent study of the effects of the Santa Barbara oil spill on the sea ecology. The Institute is sponsoring a program of research and development on methods of oil spill cleanup. Sulfur content of lighter petroleum fuels, such as gasoline, diesel fuel and home heating oils, has been reduced by more than half since World War II. Similarly, the sulfure content of heavy fuel oils has been dramatically cut. Today's new cars give off less than a third of the unburned gasoline and carbon monoxide produced by cars give off less than a third of the unburned gasoline and carbon monoxide produced by cars of the early 1960's. U. S. oil companies lead all other U.S. industries in expenditures for air and water pollution control.

The Open Letter of the American Petroleum Institute to concerned citizens is reassuring, ing, both for its forthrightness and for the concrete evidence it presents that the oil industry has made pollution control a first order of business.

Interstate Road Code

Tropics and Trends reports that there is a logical pattern for the new interstate highway numbering system. East-West routes are assigned an even one or two digit number. North-South routes receive an odd one or two digit number. Three-digit signs indicate proximity to cities-if the first digit is even, expect to go through or around a city-first digit odd will take you into a city. What all this amounts to is that should you be lost on an unfamiliar interstate road some night, without a map, you would know that you're traveling either East or West, or North or South, or by a city, or into a city.

INCREASED OPPRESSION IN POLAND

The Soviet Communists and their puppets in Warsaw are imposing new repressive measures in stepped-up attempt to crush the spirit of the people of Poland.

Secret Police Chief Mieczyslaw Moczar, under orders from Moscow, has directed his latest moves against Polish patriotism. For example, the first line of the Polish national anthem is "Poland is not yet lost." This anthem has now been officially banned.

Moczar has also banned any reference to the great Polish national hero, Tadeuxz Kosciuszko. This last measure has special significance for citizens of this country. In 1776, at the age of thirty, Kosciuszko left Poland to come to America to volunteer to fight in George Washington's army in our Revolutionary War. He achieved the rank of Brigadier- General, served Washington as an adjutant, and distinguished himself in the battles for New York and at Yorktown. After the war, Congress granted Kosciuszko United States citizenship.

Upon his return to Poland Kosciuszko helped draft the Polish Constitution and to drive back a Russian invasion. He was wounded at Maciejowice and then imprisoned in Russia for two years. Because of his bravery and patriotism he is revered in Poland as a symbol of freedom. It is therefore not surprising that Poland's communist dictators have made Kosciuszko a "nonperson."

It is not likely, however, that these latest measures will succeed in making the Poles docile under communist dictatorship. Earlier persecution, including the Soviet genocide of hundreds of thousands of Polish people after World War II, have not succeeded. The Polish spirit should inspire all of us to value freedom more highly. HLH

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON -- Republican contributors are being more generous than ever this election year, but unfortunately for the GOP, not all of their donations end up in the party's war chest.

GOP fund raisers are increasingly concerned about a free-lance Washington operation which they think is luring thousands in political funds away from the Republicans.

The outfit is called "The National Republican Statesman." It is an irregularly published tabloid newspaper filled with party propaganda gleaned mostly from press release and other public information.

We have found one case where a 72-year-old California woman in poor health was pursuaded by one of the publication's fund solicitors to donate more than $15,000 in the past nine months.

The solicitor, however, only forwarded $7,000 to the publication's Washington office. Without his colleagues' knowledge, he put the other $8,100 in a bank account of his own in California.

The "national Republican Statesman" generates most of its money by telephone solicitation. Potential contributors are urged to donate so that the publication can be distributed free to as many people as possible.

They are told that distribution of the tabloid will help persuade Democrats and independents to vote Republican. Unless they are specifically asked, the solicitors do not acknowledge that the publication is not affiliated with the GOP.

Irving Page, one of the fund-raisers for the newspaper, explained the reason why: "You just can't chase people away before you talk to them....You can't say it. After all we're in business."

MISSING $8,100

Page insisted, however, that his phone callers do tell potential contributors that the "National Republican Statesman" is "independent." Page was asked about the $15,000 which Judith Crawford of Pasadena, Calif., has given by check to either "The National Republican Statesman" or simply "The Republican Statesman" since last December.

He said a check of the records showed that his organization had only received $7,000 from Miss Crawford. He had no knowledge of any other donations by her.

My associate Brit Hume subsequently determined that Miss Crawford had written three checks totaling $7,000 to "The National Republican Statesman." They were forwarded to Washington and deposited in the publication's bank account.

The remaining $8,100, however, was given in three checks made out to simply "The Republican Statesman." It was deposited in a Los Angeles bank, endorses by a man named Jack Henderson.

Irving Page identified Henderson as a Los Angeles real estate man who spent part of his time helping "The National Republican Statesman" raise money. Henderson was the solicitor who approached Miss Crawford for her donations, Page said.

Henderson, however, could not be reached to explain why he had deposited the $8,100 in a Los Angeles bank without the knowledge of his associates in Washington.

A check of the Los Angeles phone book revealed no publication with the name "Republican Statesman," although that is the name to which the checks totaling $8,100 were written.

Miss Crawford's bank, the Security Pacific National Bank, has asked the United Republican Finance Committee in Los Angeles to investigate. The bank wants to know if the $15,000 "actually reached the official arm or department of the Republican party for which it was intended."

WASHINGTON WHIRL

Flood Benefits -- The flooding brought on by Hurrican Agnes that ravaged sections of Pennsylvania cost many area residents their jobs and may eventually cost Housing Secretary George Romney his job. Romney's Director of Public Affairs, Jim Judge, is doing better, however. His son Jeffrey, 21, has landed a temporary job with HUD in Harrisburg as a courier. His younger son Jonathan, meanwhile, has found a job with the government's Federal Regional Council. Judge insists he didn't get his boys their jobs. All he did was call Harrisburg to find out if any jobs were abailable.

Kee Job -- Rep. James Kee, D—W. Va., who was defeated in the primary last spring, has been making the most of his final months in office. He promptly raised the salary of his daughter, Kirsten Cook, who has worked on his staff for some time. Kee says she earned the raise by working hard. The trouble is that she immediately took off on a five-week vacation.

Shriver's Old French Connections

Tell What Makes 'Sarge' Run

By Victor Riesel

LONDON --- No newsman worthy of his police identity card can be homeward bound from the Continent without first having searched out Sargent Shriver's French connections. Or without having conversed in out-of-the-way Parisian Left Bank and Soho restaurants here with those who worked closely with the Democratic Vice Presidentail nominee when he was the swiftly moving American Ambassador to France.

One of these, of the highest rank, said the other day: "Sarge is 'beautiful people' but as an administrator he was a disaster." He ran the embassy, tough and furious, as an outpost for his own, not the clan Kennedy's, political interest. Ever since the '50s when he wanted to be governor of Illinois, he has wanted to be President of the U.S. And constantly he saw the elegant embassy and residence, there at the end of the Champs-Elysees, as the beginning of his national political career.

"Sarge," as everybody who knows him loves to call him, is intensely intellectual, Yale cum laude, and to the infinite degree shrewder and more strategically manipulative than George McGovern and the late Ambassador Joe Kennedy (his patron) blended. Shriver's political instinct, according to those who were under him in the ambassadorial years, is to play the youth, the ethnics, the black communities, the whole radical spectrum -- but without understanding their fundamentals.

For example, he would call on his aides to arrange for the rounds of an auto plant. Person-to-person sort of thing. Calls would go out to the union and industry people. A visiting party would be arranged. He'd walk in the plant door -- and dart away from the official party to shake hands with some assembly line worker or shop steward. All much to the annoyance of the French labor leaders who then would remonstrate with the American Foreign Service officials.

There are stories of his visits to Lyons textile mills, Alsatian miners and fishermen in the little Marseille restaurants. Everybody loves to tell them.

But when I was in Paris last March for swift coverage of stories which may soon shake the world's industrial fronts, there were those who asked why the embassy under Ambassador Shriver had done so little in his stewardship to expose the most brutal French connection of all -- the Marseille narcotics Sicilian-Corsican syndicate which has done more to despoil central cities in America than any other force.

Mind you, I was in Paris in March---long before Shriver was a potential President of the U.S.-- as in any Vice Presidential nominee. No one blames "Sarge" for not concentrating on the Marseille mob all the time -- but some of the time would have been helpful.

Yet this was a moment when the narcotics trade was so heavy, and so much of it was coming through France, instead of Western Germany as it is now, that it became an important part of the conversation between Presidents Nixon and Pompidou.

This was just not his saucer of tea, though choking off this heroin flow would have done more for the proletariat back home than a thousand factory visits in France.

I can recall some of us discussing this in a restaurant on the Champs not too far from the Etoile as someone pointed to several men going upstairs to the restaurant's second-floor dining room. They were notorious Corsican racketeers. But under Shriver it just wasn't that kind of embassy. He had a band of very young foreign service officers, bright indeed, who, in effect, would roam the corridors asking embassy officials to come up with chances for the Ambassador to get some visibility. There were sudden calls from his office to his subordinates directing them to get prominent French personalities around to the residence for Friday night "debates." But always "Sarge" appeared to be intellectually chauvinistic. He would favor the left, and the left in France are the mix of successful and powerful Communists and left-wing Socialists.

This created difficulties for the embassy's permanent staff. Constantly they were reproved by those who found it distasteful -- and more -- for the American Ambassador, gracious, charming though he and his wife Eunice are, to be cuddling the enemies of Gaullism and capitalism.

Ali this came at a very critical period. There had been an upheaval -- a French revolution in all but name -- for six weeks during the late spring of 1968. Ambassador Shriver had not quite understood the nature of the workers' revolt which actually threatened all French institutions with literal anarchy. Even the Communists momentarily lost control of their labor confederation. It was s sensitive moment indeed. Later, Shriver, who took virtually all his guidance on labor matters from the Reuther brothers and their anonymous but influential former aide Jack Conway, decided it was time for the U.S. to launch a "labor program" in France. He wrote to AFL-CIO president George Meany whom he has disliked for years. When Meany read the long letter, he took icicle in hand and said, in effect,, Shriver, here is the labor situation in France...

They've tried to avoid each other ever since. Thus it may well be right through this election.

Grissom Guilty Of Murder

WYNNE, Ark. (AP) — A Circuit Court jury deliberated 48 minutes today before finding Elbert Ray Grissom, 52, of McDougal guilty on three counts of first- degree murder in the April 6 slaying of three law enforcement officers.

The jury of 11 men and one woman recommended life imprisonment for Grissom on each charge.

Grissom showed no emotion when the verdict was read.

Circuit Court Judge Charles W. Light charged the jury when court convened at 9 a.m. today and then both sides presented their closing arguments.

Grissom is charged in the April 6 deaths of Sheriff Doug Batey, 49, and deputies Glenn Archer, 35, and Troy Key, 47, in a shootout at the Grissom home.

The state was asking for life imprisonment for Grissom on each of the three charges.

The prosecution rested its case Wednesday afternoon and 17 minutes later the defense rested without calling a witness.

In testimony Wednesday, Donald Grissom, son of the defendant, said he saw his father open fire on the three officers without warning.

Ordered To Stop Showing Obscene Movies

KENNETT, Mo. (AP) — A southeast Missouri drive- in theater has been ordered to stop showing movies Sheriff Raymond Scott says are obscene.

Circuit Judge William H. Billings of Dunklin County issued a temporary injunction this week against the All-Star Theater in Holcomb. A hearing date on the injunction has not been set.

Scott said he confiscated two films Saturday night after he drove by the outdoor theater and saw scenes "worse than stag movies." He said what he objects to is that the films can be seen from the highway.

One of the movies was called "Women's Liberation," said Scott, "and it certainly did show some liberated women."

The theater's owner claims he spent $12,000 for a fence to block the picture screen from non- customers.

One Arrested

CHARLESTON — There was one arrest reported by the police department. Raymond Crossfield, 54, of Charleston, paid a $16 fine Thursday for public intoxication.

Reason we can't take that two-week rest in the mountains is that we've got to work the time to pay the specialist for the advice.

Ann Landers

Friendship Gets Out Of Hand

Dear Ann Landers: I am writing in the hope you will correct an impression which you inadvertently gave your readers regarding Judaism. You said in a column recently, "I have never believed in the Biblical line, 'An eye for an eye and a tooth for a tooth.' If everyone practiced this philosophy we would eventually have a world of blind and toothless people."

It is regrettable that this quote is widely misunderstood by a great many people, Jews included.

"And eye for an eye" literally means that the punishment must never exceed the crime. This piece of legislation was revolutionary in a time when cruel and inhuman punishment was inflicted upon people who perpetrated minor offenses. Even in enlightened England, when a man stole a loaf of bread he was thrown in jail where he often languished until death.

So you see, Ann, this precept is actually a relatively compassionate piece of legislation, thousands of years ahead of its time. Thank you for setting the record straight. --Dr. Jerome Kestenbaum (Norfolk)

Dear Dr. Kestenbaum: I appreciate your interpretation of that frequently quoted Biblical line. Thank you for educating me.

Dear Ann Landers: Yesterday afternoon at about 2:00 p.m. company arrived --unexpected and unannounced. My husband was lying down trying to take a nap. I was in the kitchen preparing food for 18 people who were invited for the next day.

These drop-in guests showed no embarrassment at inconveniencing us. What burned me up more than anything was that my husband offered them the food I had prepared for the next day's company. They made hogs of themselves and practically wiped me out. After they left I had to clean up the mess and start cooking and baking again. I was in the kitchen until 11:00 p.m.

Now my husband isn't speaking to me. He says I humiliated him because I wasn't charming and hospitable. I'd like your comments. --- Miffed With Milton In Montana

Dear Miffed: Husbands should keep their noses out of the kitchen unless they are doing the cooking and baking. Milton had no right to offer the food you had prepared for the following day. When people drop in unexpectedly, the helpless victims (surprised hosts) have no obligation to lay on a feed -- or anything else.

Dear Ann Landers: A few years ago my husband and I became friendly with a couple who seemed interesting and fun to be with. We saw a good deal of them, had a few trips together and became quite close. When they bought a house two blocks from us we were not very happy.

To put it candidly, by that time we were sick of them. They wanted to be in on everything we did, even family affairs where they were out of place. We tried to cool the relationship but they wouldn't take a hint. They began to show up at odd hours of the day and night. Now we know they are crazy.

We refused to answer the door last night when they came over. They knocked on the windows and harrassed us for one solid hour. Then the phone started to ring. We did not answer and they kept us up calling until 2:00 a.m.

What can we do? --- Targets

Dear Targets: A frank talk is in order. Tell them you want to be left alone for a while. Be friendly but firm. If they continue to harrass you, have an attorney write them a letter saying you don't want to make their persistence a legal matter but if driven to it, you will do so.

What's prudish? What's O.K.? If you aren't sure, you need some help. It's available in the booklet: "Necking and Petting ---What Are the Limits?" Mail your request to Ann Landers in care of your newspaper, enclosing 50c in coin and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Preacher's Kids ARE Different

By REV. DAVID POLING

Of all professions and occupations, the preacher's kids seem to be the most discussed, and the most constantly observed in our society. Yet no scientific material has been produced to support the claims that children of clergymen are more wild, or religious, or industrious or successful than the children down the street. There were some statistical studies in "Who's Who" that appeared to indicate a high performance pattern, high achievement cycle that belonged to the youngsters of the manse. But usually, we lived for the comments and clues of neighbors, church members, biographers to tell us about the track record of preacher's kids.

However, a national study has just been completed, the first of its kind touching upon the life and attitudes of the children of clergymen and published in the June 28 issue of Christian Century. In an article, "Children of Clergymen: Do They Fit the Stereotype," Alan Bayer, Laura Kent and Jeffrey E. Dutton have produced a significant document which answers the question they and others have pondered.

In 1969, 250,000 entering freshmen at 390 institutions of higher education filled out a questionnaire. In this group, some 2,200 children of clergymen were identified and the comparative studies of their hobbies, habits, life style and religious loyalties were most revealing.

Motivation and Goals

The national study disclosed that youngsters from the manse do have high motivation in regard to scholastic achievement and academic accomplishment. In their graduating class, the young people from pastor's homes were in the top quarter of their class, some 55 per cent of them compared to 44 per cent from other families. More than 47 per cent of the minister's children had tutored others during high school—compared to 41 per cent of their contemporaries.

In the grant and scholarship field, minister's children got 37 per cent of their grouping on the receiving end—compared to only 18 per cent from others' homes. (This is not a fair comparison, since many of the young people from clergy homes qualify for low-income grants, a favored group in the eves of some college funds.)

Music

The most dramatic comparison of ministers' children compared to other young people in the population is in the field of music. More than 48 per cent of the men and an amazing 60 per cent of the women entering college from clergy homes played musical instruments. Compare this to 37 per cent of other freshmen and 43 per cent of other women. Music is big in the church and important in the life of clergy families. A large number of stage, television and other show-business personalities got their start in the church choir and the piano in the parsonage.

Religion and Social Ethics

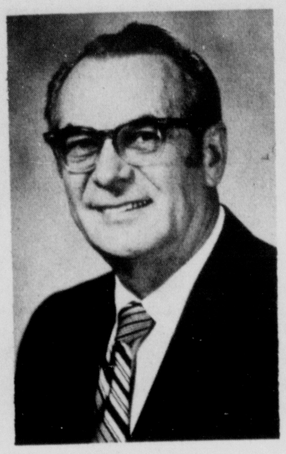
Contrary to some opinion, the survey revealed that children of clergymen did not express disdain or scorn of the religious life. The opposite is true, in their church attendance and in their pursuit of religious concerns. While 28 per cent of the entering class of freshmen said they discussed religion "frequently," a massive 51 per cent of clergy kids indicated their participation.

On the drinking question, 56 per cent of the freshmen class said it drank beer occasionally—31 per cent of the ministers' youth was hitting the same bottle.

Politics

Perhaps it is no accident that George McGovern is active in politics, for other ministers' children show a high interest in government and politics—much higher than their classmates. In the concept of service and motivation toward humanity, the young people from the manse rate hi h.

Sunday School Official Guest At First Church



Rev. William Kirschke

The Rev. William E. Kirschke, national secretary of the Assemblies of God Sunday school department, will be featured speaker tonight at the annual Sunday School Banquet of First Assembly of God Church at 306 South Kingshighway. He will also be speaking in a special Sunday School Worker's Conference Saturday and to the church in both services on Sunday.

An internationally recognized Sunday school authority, the Rev. Mr. Kirschke currently oversees the development and promotion of the Sunday school program for more than 9,000 schools throughout the United States.

"The same motivating force that sent the early church sweeping through the Roman Empire like a fire driven by a hard wind, is available to every Sunday school today," the Sunday school leader firmly states. He believes the Sunday school "is the church's most important single avenue of outreach."

Assemblies of God Sunday schools, with headquarters in Springfield, Missouri, currently have a membership of more than one million. The Rev. Mr. Kirschke's responsibilities in the national office include supervision of six divisions, two publications, and three national field representatives. He travels from coast to coast in the interest of Sunday school speaking in conventions, rallies, workshops, Sunday school revivals, seminars, and training courses.

He also serves as a member of the board of directors for the National Sunday School Association and Vice- President of the Denominational Executive Secretaries Commission, a subsidiary of NSSA and the National Association of Evangelicals.

The Assemblies of God commissioned the Rev. Mr. Kirschke to spend a year in Augstralia in 1960-61 to promote evangelism and Sunday school work. On the return trip he ministered in Indonesia, Singapore, and the Philippines.

He has written The Twentieth Century Challenge to the Church in Building, a book giving the six fundamental laws of Sunday school growth. He has also written numerous magazine articles and pamphlets.

Lay Witness Mission Activities Underway

A prayer vigil began at 6 a.m. Thursday in individual Sikeston Churches as part of the Greater Sikeston Lay Witness Mission, which is planned for this weekend.

Approximately 150 witnesses will arrive at 3 p.m. today at the North Acres General Baptist Church to participate in the three -day event.

Individual churches will have a potluck supper for their congregations and lay witnesses will be assigned to their churches at 5:30 p.m. before the 7:30 service tonight at the Sikeston High School fieldhouse.

On Saturday, a law enforcement breakfast will be held at 7 a.m. at the El Capri and coffees will be held in individual homes at 10 a.m. A soft drink party will be held at 10 a.m. for young people at the Happening on Smith St. Ted and Tim Haynes of Roscoe, Tex., lay witnesses will be at the party.

A luncheon will be held at noon Saturday at the Wesley Methodist Church and between 3 p.m. and 4 p.m. an in depth seminar on soul winning and witnessing will be presented by Ed Morehead at the first church of the Nazarene on Trotter Street. Saturday night services will then be held at 7:30 in the field house.

Sunday, the lay witnesses will go to various churches and participate in the regular Sunday morning services.

Child care will be provided at the Wesley United Methodist Church nights during services at the field house.

Exiled Russian Church Demands Return Of Property

JERUSALEM (AP) — The fight between the Whites and Reds of Russia is still going on in Jerusalem.

Both sides maintain churches in the holy city.

The Soviet Ecclesiastical Mission, with about 100 nuns and a few priests, has been based since 1948 in a compound and the Church of St. John the Baptist in a Jewish suburb. One of the nuns, the Soviets say, is 102 years old.

The White Russians—the Russian Orthodox Church in exile— comprise about 150 nuns and priests mostly based in a golden-domed church on the Biblical Mount of Olives.

Now the church split, dating back to the 1917 Russian Revolution, has become an issue in Israel's law courts.

Israel became involved when it captured old Jerusalem in the 1967 Middl East war.

"Don't make waves was the password" said Saul Colbi, director of Christian affairs for Israel's Ministry of Religion.

The White Russians demanded that Israel recognize their claims to holy places in Jewish Jerusalem. These, according to the head of the antiSoviet Orhodox Church, Archimandrite Anthony Grabbe, "we were forced to turn over to the avowedly atheistic Soviet government mission in 1948."

According to Colbi, the story is different.

"The Whites were staunchly pro-Arab. When they foresaw Israel's imminent takeover of West Jerusalem in 1948, they fled to the Arab sector.

"When the official Soviet mission requested the properties, they were turned over and on Dec. 31, 1948, the first batch of priests arrived from Moscow," Colbi said.

The White Russians have petitioned the government for return of the properties in West Jerusalem.

The government declined the request and shunted it into the courts, where it has remained for the past four years.

The disputed properties include seven churches, half a dozen tracts in Jerusalem and about 10 more pieces of land throughout the country.

Dictatorship Foreseen Unless Morals Improve

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — A dictator in the United States is inevitable unless the nation's morals improve, Dr. John R. Rice, long-time editor of "The Sword of the Lord," said in an interview last week.

Rice, who has been a baptist minister for 52 of his 76 years, was the keynote speaker for the 14th annual Chritian Crusade convention.

The Murfreesboro, Tenn., evangelist-editor said he "always has been, and continues to be, a firm believer in the American way of life." But he added that "unless the few good currents, I can see are greatly multiplied, I can see no solution for this nation but a dictator."

St. Eustachius School Initiates New Program

PORTAGEVILLE — With the approval of the pastor, Father Amel Shibley, and the Education Committee of the Parish Council, St. Eustachius School in Portageville will initiate a program of individualized learning. This year, grades kindergarten through four will be nongraded.

After extensive testing, each child will begin work at his own readiness or achievement level, and will be allowed to advance according to his own pace. Thus, the program will take care of the child as an individual, Father Shibley said, he will never meet failure.

The parents have been oriented and are actually involved in the preparations. Mothers have carpeted the classrooms, stairways, and halls. They are aiding in the setting up of learning centers for reading, math, language arts, listening, and science in various areas of the classrooms. The fathers have moved desks and furniture, and are setting up quarters for the two CASA Volunteers who will work with the four Sisters of Mercy on the program. Parents are also supplying new playground equipment.

In order to best utilize the talents and training of the teachers, Sister Mary Philothea, R.S.M., director of the Primary Department, will be assisted by all the other teachers of the school, who will act as a team.

Plans include less extensive individualization in grades five through eight; total non- grading is envisioned for 1973-74.

Two Join MDEM Staff

HAYTI — Two new volunteers have joined the staff of the Missouri Delta Ecumenical Ministry (MDEM) in Hayti.

Richard Male, executive director, said Margo English and Don Ingalls will both work primarily with economic development projects in the Bootheel.

Miss English, originally from Midland, Mich., graduated from Ferris State College in 1968 in food service supervision. She also managed a food service cafeteria in Toledo, Ohio.

She recently completed 2½ years as a VISTA volunteer working in the economic development and social services field.

Originally from Storrs, Conn., Ingalls graduated from the university of North Carolina in Chapel Hill this past spring in political science. While in college, he worked with the inter- church council for social service, a delegate body of churches in Chapel Hill working with the poor.

Miss English is being sponsored by the Methodist US-2 program. Catholic Service Associates is sponsoring Ingalls.

Presently, the ministry is involved with the Bootheel Credit Union, Cooperative Supermarket in Howardville, Community Mental Health Training programs, concerned welfare mothers of Pemiscot County and other programs.

All of these projects are attempted around a basic philosophy of organizing people around the needs as the people see them. This has led to the establishment of the now independent Bootheel Agricultural Services incorporated Cooperative (BASIC).

Father Wally Ellinger, past pastor at New Madrid, and now social concerns chairman for the Catholic Diocese, presides over MDEM's 24- member Board of Directors composed of local leaders, poor people and clergy.

The staff, headed by Male, operates out of MDEM's office on Highway 84 west in Hayti.

INTERNATIONAL
SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON
By Dr. William H. Taft

FOR AUGUST 27, 1972

Scripture: Acts 4:13-21; 8:26-40

Sharing Through Witness

How does one witness for his Christian beliefs? He might witness through his spoken testimony for Christ or in his interpretation of life and the universe. Or he might witness through Christian action.

Whatever method we select we must remember that we all have a responsibility to witness to the gospel. We are empowered by the Holy Spirit to do this if we desire.

Our lesson today concerns the coldness and courage of Peter and John who witnessed for Jesus. These men were untrained and unscholarly. They were "people of the land," being "illiterate" in the eyes of the Sanhedrin.

The Temple officials were disturbed by the effectiveness of Peter and John. In spite of their backgrounds, these men were reaching the people. They had been with Jesus and had witnessed His work.

Under the influence of Jesus these disciples were able to reach heights they never had reached before. They had been arrested for their boldness, their bravery in spreading the Word.

Peter and John were devoted to Jesus. But this devotion was not enough. They knew there was a need to witness before others so that the message would spread across the world.

A Reader's Digest article recently noted that "Scarcely anyone seems to approve of the Christian churches today."

This is not a new development. The Temple leaders were not in agreement with the actions of the disciples and sought to curtail their movement.

Peter and John were directly to cease their witnessing. Their freedom of movement was to end because the officials feared them. The church is in trouble when it upsets the rules of the established government.

They turned to Jewish leaders and reminded them that their prophets for years had witnessed to the inner workings of God. "The life of devotion is false without a response in the form of witness." The church that succeeds best is the one that speaks out.

It is a favorite trick of the opposition to throw doubt upon our witnesses. This technique is revealed in our political activities and in our hearings before government agencies.

Peter and John were aware of this. However, they were so sure of the soundess of their message that nothing could stop them.

The disciples had their own backers. They brought into court a man they had healed, revealing their closeness to Christ who gave them the ability to help the ill.

Thus they had "a witness to their witness." Since the court could find nothing wrong with their acts, they had to release Peter and John.

Witnessing is sharing. Many of our newspapers, magazines, and books include examples of personal experiences the writers want to share. "Guideposts" is a magazine of such experience.

Our young people are witnessing more today, although many are doing so in ways unusual for the more formal churches. They are bold in their approach. They are discovering the truth and speaking for it.

There is a natural fear among many persons about too much witnessing in public. Yet when one is as sure of his beliefs as were Peter and John, he can be bold.

Our memory selection reminds us that "we cannot but speak of what we have seen and heard."

When we are as sure of our beliefs as John and Peter were, we have no difficulty in being bold in our witnessing.

45. Moses and Aaron Before Pharaoh

The Lord told Moses to return to Egypt from the Land o Midian and with his wife and sons to help the children of Israe out of their bondage. The Lord sent Aaron, who was to help Moses, out to meet him in the wilderness. "And Moses told Aaron all the words of the Lord who had sent him, and all the signs which he had commanded him."

Exodus 4:28

They went to the elders of the children of Israel and Aaron told them the words of the Lord and showed them the signs the Lord had given him and Moses to help free them from bondage. The elders and people believed what they were told and bowed their heads in worship.

"And afterward Moses and Aaron went in, and told Pharaoh, Thus saith the Lord God of Israel, Let my people go, that they may hold a feast unto me in the wilderness."

Exodus 5:1

Pharaoh was indignant and demanded to know "Who is the Lord, that I should obey his voice to let Israel go? I know not the Lord, neither will I let Israel go."

Moses and Aaron told Pharaoh that the Lord had met with them and all they wanted was time for a three day journey into the wilderness to make a sacrifice to the Lord to prevent his wrath. Of course three days into the wilderness would give them their freedom. Pharaoh wanted to know who they thought they were that they could release the Israelites from their work and commanded them to get back to work.

OVER 150 golf enthusiasts were on hand for a golf demonstration by trick shot artist, Count Yogi, last week at the Country Club course. Jean Allen's and Jerry Throgmorton sponsored the event. At left, the count uses an extended club to hit the ball while part of the crowd at right, looks on.

Bliss Leads State Golf Event

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Donald Bliss, 20, a St. Louis college student, remained as the man to beat today as the Missouri Men's Amateur Golf Tournament entered a double round of match play.

Bliss downed Tim Mehl of Belton 3 and 2 in Thursday's morning round and followed with a 4 and 2 victory over Tom Campbell of Columbia in the afternoon session.

Jim Jackson, a three-time tourney champion of St. Louis, was eliminated by fellow St. Louisan Richard Dalton 1 up while 1966 champion Jim Patton of Springfield lost to Jerome Freeland 3 and 2 in the afternoon. Freeland is from St. Louis.

Otherwise Scott Bess of Columbia, who won the event in 1969, was the only former champion to advance as he went an extra hole to defeat Steve Adkisson of St. Louis in the morning and belted Jim Mason, also of St. Louis, 8 and 6 in the afternoon.

Bess will oppose Jefferson City's Spencer Sappington in the quarter-finals today after Sappington produced 3 and 2 victories over Sid Salamon III of St. Louis and Tom Fisher of St. Charles.

Bliss meets Freeland, who disposed of Dennis Green of St. Louis 4 and 2 before upsetting Patton.

Lower bracket quarter-final pairings today included Dalton versus Blaine Helmer of St. Louis, who went 22 holes during a Thursday morning match to beat Charles Patterson of Sedalia and ousted Bill Ludwig of Kansas City 2 and 1 in the afternoon.

In the other quarter-final, George Biederman of St. Louis will face Bob Weaver of Kansas City. Bierderman beat Dan La Bruyer of Columbia 4 and 3 and Jim Ruck of St. Louis 3 and 2, as Weaver stopped Ben Schulein of St. Louis 3 and 1 and Stewart Shockley of Kansas City 6 and 5.

Additional first round results:

Dalton def. Jim Plummer, St. Louis, 1 up.

Campbell def. Bruce Hollowell, Springfield, 1 up on 19.

Patton def. Don Placke, St. Louis, 2 and 1.

Mason def. Luther Godwin, Poplar Bluff, 1 up on 19.

Fischer def. Roy Ritchey, Liberty, 3 and 2.

Jackson def. Ken Lanning, Rolla, 4 and 3.

Ludwig def. John Simmons, Marshall, 2 and 1.

Shockley def. Terry Tessary, St. Louis, 3 and 2.

Ruck def. Bill Mathews, St. Louis, 5 and 4.

Today's morning quarter-final winners will compete in the afternoon in matched semifinals. Saturday's title match is over 36 holes.

Redskins Have Pleasant Problem

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Washington Redskins Coach George Allen has a quarterback problem—and the other teams in the National Football League are hoping he solves it soon.

Allen's problem is deciding on a starting quarterback—Billy Kilmer or Sonny Jurgensen?

Jurgensen is the 15-year veteran, a former NFL passing champ who holds numerous NFL records and ranks as the league's premier lifetime passer.

Kilmer, meanwhile, is the 10year veteran who came to the Redskins last year and, when Jurgensen suffered a preseason shoulder injury, stepped right in and led the Redskins to a postseason playoff berth.

In order to decide on a starter, Allen has been letting Kilmer work the first half of each of Washington's preseason games, with Jurgensen handling the second half.

And the results have been nothing less than spectacular.

Washington has won all three games played thus far, and won them with ease—33-3 over Baltimore, 41-0 over Denver and 34-10 over Philadelphia.

Kilmer has completed 21 of 41 passes for 294 yards and five touchdowns. Jurgensen has hit on 15 of 23 for 245 yards and four TDs.

All of which means the Detroit Lions, Washington's opponents in tonight's nationally televised exhibition game, figure to have their hands full.

In tonight's only other exhibition contest, the Miami Dolphins host the Atlanta Falcons.

In Thursday night's single game, Houston's Dan Pastorini passed for three touchdowns as the Oilers beat St. Louis 33-24.

The Cardinals scored on a one-yard run by Jim Hart, two TD passes by Gary Cuozzo to Ara Person and Don Heater and a Jim Bakken field goal. But Pastorini hit Ken Burrough for 28 yards, Dennis Hughes for seven and Rhett Dawson for 12, all for touchdowns. Charlie Joiner and Lloyd Walsh also ran for Houston tallies.

Oiler second-year quarterback Lynn Dickey dislocated his left hip in the first quarter. There was no immediate word on how long he would be lost to the team.

Five games are scheduled for Saturday. In the only day contest, Buffalo plays Oakland at Berkeley, Calif. In night action, the New York Jets are at Dallas for a nationally televised game, Minnesota is at Cleveland, Pittsburgh meets Baltimore at Tampa, Fla. and San Diego is at New Orleans.

In Sunday's two day games, Denver is at San Francisco and the New York Giants are at New England. Sunday night, it's Los Angeles at Kansas City for a nationally televised game and Chicago against Green Bay at Milwaukee.

In the wind-up to the five-day weekend schedule, Cincinnati plays at Philadelphia Monday night.

Hawaii Eyes Ruth Championship

PINE BLUFF, Ark. (AP) — Hawaii gained the championship round of the Babe Ruth World Series of the Babe Ruth Wolrd Series here Thursday with a 5-4 victory over previously undefeated Montgomery, Ala.

Once-beaten Prince Georges, Md., kept its hopes alive in the double-elimination event by disposing of defending champ Puerto Rico 5-3 in the other Thursday night game.

Montgomery and Prince Georges play at 8 o'clock tonight for the right to meet unbeaten Hawaii at 1:30 p.m Saturday.

Little League Finals Set

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa. (AP) — Taiwan's team in the Little League World Series prepares for a baseball game the way Republicans plan their National convention: everything is worked out in advance.

There's no guarantee the other team will follow the script, but there was no deviation Thursday when Taiwan propelled itself into Saturday's final against Hammond, Ind.

Before their 9-1 victory over Pearl City, Hawaii, manager Lin Hsin-chang told his players:

"Try to exhaust the other pitcher. Wear him out. Just try to hit the ball."

The Asian youngsters did just that, pecking away for single runs in the first, fourth and fifth innings, and scoring twice in the second, third and sixth. However, of the team's 10 hits, only two were for extra bases — a home run by Chiang Fucheng and a double by Lin Chaochin.

Pitcher Lin hurled a masterful game, allowing only one hit — a home run by Kirk Sato — and striking out 15. He fanned the side in three of the six innings.

Hammond reached the finals with its 10-7 triumph Thursday over San Juan, Puerto Rico.

The Indiana team jumped to a 10-2 lead, then held on while San Juan scored once in the fifth and added four runs in the sixth. Three of the sixth-inning runs came across on Eduardo Santos' home run.

Hammond Manager, Peter Vargulich sensed his starting pitcher, Robbie Clark, might tire on the hot day. After the team shot into its big lead, he told Clark to take it easy if he got on base.

That plan didn't work, as Clark circled the bases in the first, second and fourth innings, the only member of his team to score three times. He had a double, was safe on a fielder's choice and was hit by a pitch.

Saturday's final will be about the closest you can come to a rematch of the 1971 finale without matching the same teams. Last year, Taiwan won the championship 12-3 over Gary, Ind., a neighboring city to Hammond.

Softball Tourney Begins

JEFFERSON CITY — Two Southeast Missouri teams are among 40 that will compete for the State softball championship over the weekend.

Benton and Oran will be represented.

Also competing for state honors will be Semo softball stars, John Watkins, Gill Robert and Lindon Duncan who compete with the Jefferson City Rippetto team that is favored to capture the championship. The trio flies up for weekend encounters.

Lions Assist Bulldogs

Another first for the Sikeston high school football season has been announced by the Lions club.

A 20- page program book with pictures of players, coaches, cheerleaders and band members will be sponsored by the Lions club with the proceeds going toward the purchase of a whirlpool for SHS.

The need for a whirlpool came about early this week when some of the Bulldog grid prospects came up lame after two hard weeks of work and couldn't obtain the services of a machine in town.

This is one of many contributions that the community has made toward the SHS grid program this season and new head coach, Pete Cirrantano, has had nothing but praise for the assistance that the towns people and community has rendered.

"This has to be the greatest community of its size," coach Cirrantano noted. "It's great to be a part of it."

News Staffs Methods Differ At Convention

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — High, high above the convention floor, less than an hour before air time, Walter Cronkite looked at his desk with concern. Someone had sawed off one end.

"Someone cut up my desk last night," he said more in reproach than anger. "It's got to be fixed in the next 45 minutes. Someone should have asked me before they cut it up. I don't have any place to put my papers."

The order for repair given, Cronkite turned back to his homework — a collection of notes and reference books that supports and succors television anchormen during the hours they are on the air.

It all seems so easy and relaxed on the air, the John Chancellors, David Brinkleys, Harry Reasoners, Howard K. Smiths — all wise and knowing, patient and quick-witted, explaining, predicting and pointing out the action — and filling the time with humor when things are dull.

They sit in their eagles nest, up where the baskets of red, white and blue balloons in baskets waited for Richard Nixon's sure nomination, up where the hundreds of bright lights are, up with the flags and the air conditioning ducts, up with a view of the convention floor that is breathtaking in scope and color.

To the viewer, perhaps, the choice of networks is a matter of personalitities — Cronkite's father-figure on CBS, the spark that jumps between Chancellor and Brinkley, the bristle that snaps around Smith and Reasoner.

Their ways, however, are as different as the networks' way of doing things. They are the visibles ones and everything radiates out in concentric circles.

Cronkite is in control of technical gadgetry, where he can bring in any of 99 voice channels from correspondents, producers, film, tape, or the platform to guide him. In another hall, Robert Wussler, the CBS executive producer, makes the decisions about which of 20 or more television images goes on the air.

Brinkley and Chancellor have only the unobtrusive ear plugs and telephones. Their guidance comes from NBC News President Reuven Frank and executive producer George Murray, also in a hall next door.

ABC's Reasoner and Smith are not in the hall at all. Their coverage is from an off-convention hall studio.

The three networks have set up a city of converted house trailers, both inside and outside the hall. Each network has around 500 people to put the show on the air. NBC even has such disparate items as six orthopedic beds, a boat on standby to transport key personnel in event of a traffic tieup, and 50 bottles of sun-tan lotion for personnel on outdoor locations.

Even unforseen items like a missing piece of desk can be solved. Ten minutes before air time, while Cronkite was getting on his television makeup, two stagehands left the aerie. When the smiling Cronkite came on with "good afternoon," the desk was good as new.

Don Gibson, 30 Year Country Music Man

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Don Gibson has been plucking a guiter and grinding out country music for 30 years. But don't look for that good ole homegrown country boy image, it just isn't there.

As one experienced Nashville folk artist recently remarked. "Gibson's not like the hardcore country music pickers around here. When a guy gets a chance to play with him, a lot of them usually do it for nothing. He's a soulful dude, man."

The comment was more of a build-up for Gibson than a disparaging remark toward country music old timers.

Earning the wide respect of young and old music fans hasn't been exactly easy for Gibson. He waged-and woan embittered battle with drugs for eight years.

And he has a lingering habit of putting himself in the background while others attain massive popularity off his songs. Example: "I Can't Stop Loving You," which has been recorded by 150 artists, including Ray Charles and Elvis Presley, and sold about 15 million copies.

Now, life has taken on new dimensions for Gibson, 40. The impression is that he's not changing directions .... just shifting gears.

"In the past year, I think my life in music has just begun," he said while lounging in a plush chair and sipping a drink in the swank Nashville office of Buddy Lee, a booking agent.

It was about a year ago that Gibson signed a long-term contract with Lee. An intensely private man, Gibson has seldom performed frequently-content to live in the East Tennessee resort town of Gatlinburg and write several well received songs yearly.

But since the contract, he has moved to Nashville and is gigging 10 to 15 times monthly. And, in the planning stages, is an idea for Gibson to tour with his own troupe, which is still 4 or 5 months off.

In his first interview since coming to Nashville, Gibson reflected on his long career, begun at 14 years old in Shelby, N. C. He said he would do it all over again if he had to, but:

"I feel like my better writing is yet to come," he added, glancing toward his lovely wife as if to summon some moral support. She smiled in a reassuring way.

"All my big songs were written when I was on pills. That's kinda hard to figure. I'd just walk off into the woods and be perfectly content to sit alone by a tree with my guitar."

His wife, sitting beside him, look somewhat dazed by the remark. She quickly reminded him that "I Can't Stop Loving You" and "Lonesome Me," were written by Gibson when he was off pills. He smiled and nodded approvingly.

"My wife has helped me more than anything," he said.

"I lived in hell for eight years. After taking drugs that long you begin to think that all of life is like that .. you know, taking tranquilizers to bring you down and other pills to offset the tranquilizers."

He paused, lipped the rim of his glass, and smiled: "It feels pretty damn good to breathe air and have a good life."

Gibson maintains that he doesn't need to change his tyle of singing. But there's little doubt that his last song, "Sensuos Woman," is of a different genre for him.

' friend told me that "Sensuous Woman's was a hit but that the country music crowd doesn't understand the word "sensuous," he said. "I don't think they care about the word either. It's the feeling and the emotion that gets across to the people."

Something is getting across, because the song is near the top of all country music charts. The title is indicative enough of the song's content, as is one line in it: "Release my body and let me live again."

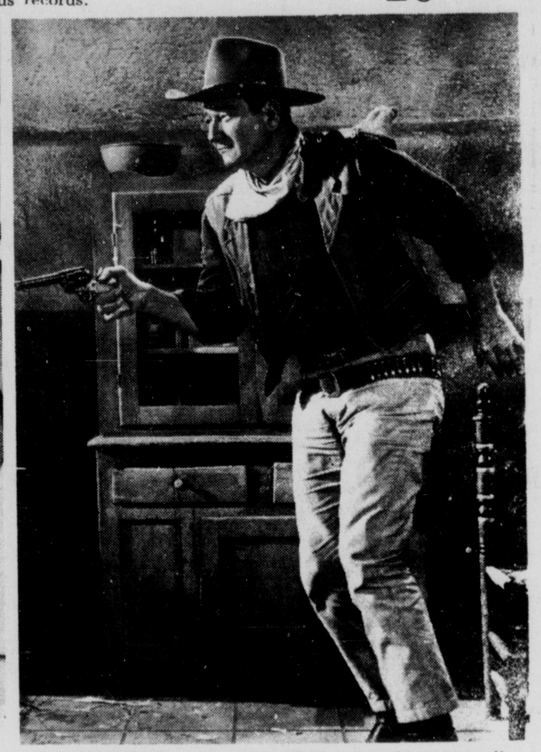
Gibson readily admits that the guitar is his first love and that lyrics aren't bis bag.

"That's where I find my biggest problem, is in lyrics," he said.

"I had a guy in this business say that I wrote too simple. Well, It's pretty hard to be simple. You can't create simplicity," he reasoned.

But simple lyrics, blended with a flashy guitar, have brought immeasurable success to Gibson. In all, he has written about 400 songs, almost half of which have been recorded, like "Legend In My Time," and Aweet Dreams."

"I'm portraying what I feel," he says of his songs. "If that comes out commercial that's good, and if it doesn't, that's good too because I do what I feel." By commercial he like it's written only to sell meant something that sounds records.



CAN IT BE? The same John Wayne who is perpetually charging, full of righteous indignation, to rescue some body from a bad guy of one kind or another, dressed up in a bunny costume? Yes, it can be, which ought to prove wrong all those people who say Duke lacks a sense of humor. Wayne, though did not appear over joyed at the prospect, agreed to play the Easter Bunny for comedienne Sarah Kennedy on television's Rowan and Martin's Laugh-In.

Parden In Four Day Marchs

NIJEMGEN, Netherlands — Army Sergeant James E. Parden, son of Mrs. Hallie B. Scherffins of Bertrand, Mo., participated in the 56th international four-day marches, July 18-21.

The 15,000 marchers, including military and civilian participants, completed approximately 25 miles a day with a 22-pound pack through the countryside and villages of the Netherlands.

Sgt. Parden is regularly assigned near Kirchgons, Germany, as a squad leader in company C, 2nd battalion, 36th Infantry.

The sergeant entered the Army in 1960 and was last stationed in Vietnam.

His wife Brigitte is with him in Germany.

What's The Law?

The Case Of The Gracious Competitor

By Jack Strauss, LL.B

Ike and Mike were the only two undertakers in a small town and, as far as each was concerned, the other was two many. Consequently they constantly dueled each other for whatever business was around. And while Ike was obvious, he was also more devious.

As an example, he gathered the names of every sick person in town and graciously sent them a card bearing Mike's name. It read in effect: "BEAR IN MIND OUR UNDERTAKING SERVICES. SATISFACTION GUARANTEED."

Upon learning of the advertisement, Mike's stovepipe hat nearly collapsed. In fact, he was so furious, he sued Ike for substantial damages.

"My heavens," he complained in court. "Putting my name to those cards was the most dastardly deed ever. It ruined my reputation and destroyed my business. After all, who but an insensitive ghould would try to sell undertaking services to a sick person?"

"Who needs it more," was Ike's answer. "The fact is I did Mike a favor and he just doesn't appreciat it. Looking at it objectively, those cards couldn't and didn't hurt him or his business one bit."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you may Ike pay damages for soliciting business for Mike?

This is how the judge ruled: YES! The judge held that a man's reputation, although invisible and intangible, exists and is prized by men. If it is injured, as Mike's was by the tactless cards, he is entitled to collect damages.

(Based upon a 1917 Iowa Supreme Court Decision)

Critics Pick Composition

WASHINGTON (AP) — Seventy-six music critics and publishers who responded to a questionnaire have named Benjamin Britten's "War Requiem" as the most significant composition of the past 25 years.

The two works which were runners-up were "St. Luke's Passion" by Krzysztof Penderecki and "Mass" by Leonard Bernstein, composed for the opening of the John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts, which conducted the poll.

It was done to help the center program a music festival called "The Old and the New," which will be held at the center from Aug. 30 through Sept. 10, featuring more than 30 concerts of 17th, 18th and 20th century compositions.

The results of the survey, in which questionnaires were sent to 500 critics and publishers, were announced by Julius Rudel, the center's music director who devised the program, and Martin Feinstein, executive director of performing arts.

Britten's "War Requiem" will be heard during the festival with Rudel conducting. "St. Luke's Passion" was not scheduled, since the National Symphony will play it during the fall.

Two other works which placed high in the most-significant poll, "Mass" and "Jesus Christ Superstar," were not included since they recently concluded runs at the Kennedy Center.

Deliberations Delay Detroit Desegration

CINCINNATI (AP) — A massive desegregation plan for Detroit area schools will not be implemented when classes open Sept. 6 because of deliberations on an appeal before the 6th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals.

The plan issued June 14 by U.S. District Court Judge Stephen J. Roth of Flint, Mich., involves metropolitan Detroit and 52 suburban school districts.

It would have involved the busing of 40,000 students across district lines this fall.

The appeals court also let stand, pending a decision on the appeal, Judge Roth's order that the State of Michigan purchase 295 buses to implement the desegregation plan this fall.

Judge Harry Phillips said a delay in the decision would be necessary because "of the size of this record and complexity of the issues involved." There was more than three hours testimony Thursday.

Officials said such cases normally take as long as eight weeks to prepare.

Arguments were presented by attorneys for the Detroit School Board, the suburban districts involved, the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, which brought the suit that led to Roth's busing plan, and the State of Michigan.

The court's delay in action followed the guidelines established in a law signed by President Nixon July 1, although Circuit Judge George Edwards sharply questioned a federal official about the statute.

The act orders postponement pending full appeal of all new district court desegregation orders requiring busing as a means of achieving balance in race, sex, religion or economic status.

The NAACP challenged the constitutionality of the law, an amendment to the 1972 Higher Education Act, in another action.

16 Die In 36 Car Pile Up

BREDA, Netherlands (AP) — At least 16 persons perished in a fiery chain of death after a tanker truck collided with another truck, exploded and sent an inpact through 36 other vehicles groping along a fogbound highway near Rotterdam this morning.

The rush-hour disaster was the worst traffic accident the Netherlands has ever had. Forty persons were hurt seriously.

The line of cars and trucks smashed and jolted or otherwise affected stretched for 10 miles north from the Breda traffic circle at Prinsenbeck.

Witnesses told of a seriously injured woman trying in vain to rescue her child after a truck struck their car. They said a man who tried to jump out of a truck to safety drowned i a stretch of water lining the fourlane motorway.

Twenty ambulances were rushed to the scene. The rescue operation was hindered by fears that a refrigerated tanker, carrying a chemical liquid inflammable at a temperature of 39 degrees, might explode.

According to the Bible, three types of trees grew in the Garden of Eden—fruit-bearing trees, the tree of life and the tree of knowledge.

Anthony Fokker, Dutch airman, pioneer aircraft designer and manufacturer, whose planes were used extensively by the German air force in World War I, died a naturalized American citizen in New York.

Price 'Adjustments' Approved

WASHINGTON (AP) Selective price "adjustments"—to cover the cost of optional equipment that will become standard on 1973 models—have been approved by the Price Commission for the big four auto-makers.

The commission said Thursday the average increase would be $8 for Ford Motor Co., $4.38 for General Motors, $1 for American Motors and $12.53 for Chrysler.

The additional equipment for Ford ranges from power disc brakes to a spare tire lock, for General Motors from disc brakes to bumper guards on some models. Chrysler's equipment ranges from electric ignition to cargo area carpeting, while American Motors listed a rear-door armrest and fuel-tank skid plate.

The commission said the cost of 1973 models will be no higher than the cost of similarly equipped current models.

The commission also formally suspended general price-hike requests from the big four until after hearings on auto prices set to begin Sept. 12.

Number 531 Killed In Ireland

BELFAST (AP) — A British soldier was killed early today, the 14th in two weeks, by a sniper who fired three shots at a patrol in North Belfast. His death brought Northern Ireland's three-year fatality toll to at least 531, more than 300 of them this year.

Another soldier was badly wounded when a gunman opened fire on a foot patrol in Londonderry. The army claimed to have hit a gunman on the roof of a building in another part of Londonderry, near the Bogside Catholic district.

The Provisional wing of the Irish Republican Army came under new pressure to stop its bombing and shooting campaign. Appeals for a cease-fire came from priests, politicians, and civil rights and community leaders — and from the Marxist-oriented Official wing of the IRA. The Officials laid down their arms in favor of political action some weeks ago.

The Civil Rights Association in Newry, where nine people were killed in an explosion Tuesday, sought a meeting with Sean McStiofian, the Provos chief of staff. The association accused the Provos of "a callous disregard for public life."

Priests, who have been preaching reconciliation between Catholic and Protestant communities, deplored the rising death toll. And the Social Democratic and Labor party Ulster's pro-Catholic party, also denounced the bombings.

The IRA Officials charged the bombing campaign was "one of the greatest causes of sectarianism at the present time." The Provisionals accused the Officials of hypocrisy.

A Belfast court ordered the deporting of an American believed involved with the IRA. He was Ronald Alfred Hirsch, 34, an actor from New York who admitted his visa had expired. Officials said a notebook found on him had the names of IRA members in it and a London address connected with the IRA.

... seems to raise the most serious questions of violation of federal criminal statutes."

A spokesman for the Justice Department said the material is under study. A Senate Judiciary subcommittee also has copies of the letters.

One letter, from William A. Powell, president of Mid-America Dairymen, Inc., which contributed $65,000 to Republican coffers, said:

"The facts of life are that the economic welfare of dairymen does depend a great deal on political action. If dairymen are to receive their fair share of the governmental financial pie that we all pay for, we must have friends in government....

"We dairymen as a body can be a dominant group. On March 23, 1971, along with nine other dairy farmers, I sat in the Cabinet room of the White House, across the table from the President of the United States and heard him compliment the dairymen on their marvelous work in consolidating and unifying of our industry and our involvement in politics. He said, 'You people are my friends and I appreciate it.'

Nixon Enjoying Campaigning Again

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (AP) — President Nixon obviously is enjoying his return to the campaign circuit. He seems to be joking more in public.

After dedicating a high school in Utica, Mich. Thursday, enroute here, he was so pleased with his reception from a largely teen-age audience that he summoned newsmen and told them, "After that I'm for reducing the voting age to 12."

Later, at an airport rally in San Diego, entertainer Art Linkletter told Nixon, and an audience of several thousand, that he had dined with Mrs. Nixon Sunday night and Monday morning in Miami Beach while the President was at Camp David in Maryland's Catoctin Mountains.

"I just want to keep the record straight," Nixon interjected. Referring to Linkletter, he said:

"He has also slept in the White House. He slept in the Queen's Room. When Pat's room is being painted or anything, she sleeps there, so we can say that Art Linkletter has slept in Pat's bed."

Revise Regulations After Soldiers Death

FORT LEONARD WOOD, MO. (AP) — Army officials here say training regulations are being revised in connection with an investigation into the death of a 17-year-old soldier following a forced march on August 2.

Private Steven P. Gasser of Madison, Wis., died of heatstroke after falling out of a formation. Several other soldiers who also fell out of the five-mile march were treated at the base hospital.

Ken Clayton, a civilian public information officer at the base, said Wednesday a letter of instruction is being prepared for training officers and drill instructors. He said it covers the subject of communications from the back to the front of training marches.

Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton, D-Mo., has asked the Army for a report on the investigation of the soldier's death, which is still under way.
